

Business Outlook Becomes Brighter, Leaders Believe

Record in First 100 Days

BY DARDEN CHAMBLISS
NEW YORK (AP)—As President Johnson ends his first 100 days on the job, many businessmen say the business mood has brightened.

The consensus of business leaders interviewed on a cross-country tour appeared to be that whatever the precise reason and however long it will last, the business climate has turned sunnier.

This isn't a matter of partisan politics. It's a question of whether businessmen feel Johnson is running the country in a way that generates confidence and encourages business to expand, build new plants and make new jobs.

Additional Spending
Ben S. Gilmer, president of Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Co. in Atlanta, says his firm's capital spending plans for 1964 had been $403 million but have now been boosted to $413 million.

In Denver, Cris Dobbins, president of Ideal Cement Co., said, "We are laying out capital plans today that I'm quite sure we would not be considering if things hadn't changed."

The change could prove to be illusory, however, some businessmen insist. It could involve hearing for Dahlke, held on a presumption that Johnson is more conservative than he will be, said Neil Oct. 12.

Encouraging Outlook
Edwin P. Neilan, president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, said recently that he is withdrawing support of Johnson because he feels Johnson juggled his budget to present a "false face of frugality."

But whatever businessmen finally conclude when they've had more time to study Johnson, most of the leaders interviewed said that the signs so far have been encouraging.

President Elmer Engstrom of Radio Corp. of America, a member of the Business Council that advises presidents, sought to describe what's happened.

"In business, we look for go signs and stop signs," he said in his office. "We watch for signs whether the administration is friendly or unfriendly to business. These are not things that can be supported by physical facts. But we get the feeling that President Johnson is friendly, and this assessment is being strengthened."

Dr. Engstrom continued in careful, measured language. "Mr. Johnson has shown himself to be determined. With the tax cut bill, there has been movement. He seems to get things done, you see."

In addition to the tax bill, Engstrom cites favorably Johnson's talk of economizing in government and reducing the federal deficit.

Officer Says Dahlke Told of Firing 11 Shots

Native of Oshkosh
Doesn't Testify
At Reno Hearing

RENO, Nev. (AP)—A police officer has testified that Douglas A. Dahlke, 27, of Oshkosh, Wis., admitted that last fall he shot his estranged wife five times, reloaded his revolver and fired six more shots into her.

The statement was attributed to Dahlke by Reno Sheriff's Deputy Ernie Schwartz who appeared Monday at a preliminary hearing for Dahlke, held on a presumption that Johnson is more conservative than he will be, said Neil Oct. 12.

Dahlke made no statement during the hour-long hearing before Justice of the Peace William R. Beemer, who ordered him held for District Court.

Made Statement Jan. 30
Schwarz said Dahlke made the admission Jan. 30, the same day his wife's body was found in a shallow grave in the basement of a house in Oshkosh.

Schwartz said Dahlke related that he and his wife took their 6-year-old son, Eric, to a movie in Sparks, just east of Reno, as a birthday treat.

The officer said Dahlke also told that during an argument in a car east of Reno, Mrs. Dahlke spotted a revolver and reached for it. Dahlke grabbed the gun and it discharged, wounding him on the top of a finger.

Schwartz quoted Dahlke as saying he then fired five shots into Mrs. Dahlke, reloaded and fired six more shots.

Drove to Oshkosh
Dahlke also was quoted as saying he picked up his son at the movie and drove to Oshkosh, where he buried the body. It was found in the basement of the home of his mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Woodland.

Dr. Harold Wagner, a pathologist from Kenosha, Wis., said Mrs. Dahlke had been shot 10 times in the head.

Oshkosh Police Chief Harry A. Guenther has said the body of Mrs. Dahlke, who disappeared Oct. 12, was apparently transported the 1,800 miles to Oshkosh in the trunk of a car.

Mrs. Dahlke had been in Nevada to get a divorce. She also was a native of Oshkosh.

Dahlke filed suit for divorce in Oshkosh Oct. 18, asking custody of his son. Dahlke later returned to his Army post at the Presidio in San Francisco, where he was taken into custody.

Baker Refuses To Testify on Former Duties

Attorney Accuses
Probers of Staging
TV Spectacular

WASHINGTON (AP)—Bobby Baker refused to testify today what his duties were as secretary to the Senate's Democratic majority and was immediately told this might result in his being cited for contempt of Congress.

The one-time page boy, who acquired wealth and power in some 20 years of working for the Senate, invoked his 5th Amendment protection against possible self-incrimination in refusing to answer most questions or to surrender subpoenaed documents.

The hearing in the packed Senate caucus room exploded into a row when Baker's lawyer, Edward Bennett Williams, accused the Rules Committee of staging a television spectacular and asked that TV cameras be removed.

Attorney Assailed
Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., demanded that Williams withdraw his statement about the committee or be expelled from the hearing room.

Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., said Williams' statement was "totally and thoroughly unwarranted."

Williams said that, since the committee knew that Baker would refuse to surrender subpoenaed documents, or to answer questions, the hearing could serve no legislative purpose, but was being held solely to hold Baker up to obloquy before television cameras.

He requested that Baker be excused from appearing.

Baker resigned last Oct. 7 as secretary to the Senate's Democratic majority, after questions were raised about his outside business and financial dealings. His Senate job paid $19,600 a year.

Herbert Hoover Said to Suffer Severe Setback

NEW YORK (AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover has suffered a "serious setback" in health, a spokesman said today.

A hospital room has been reserved for the 89-year-old former chief executive, who resides in the Waldorf-Astoria hotel.

The family of the 31st president said last June that his strength had been ebbing from anemia caused by intestinal bleeding.

He had undergone surgery the previous August at Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center for removal of a cancerous tumor of the intestinal tract.

Hoover had been relatively inactive in recent months. One of his last public appearances was at a reception in May honoring Maj. Gordon Cooper Jr., the astronaut, for his 22-orbit flight.

Today doctors described his condition as "fairly satisfactory."

They said: "The present illness is due to bleeding from the right kidney, probably secondary to a kidney stone."

"The clinical picture has been complicated by a respiratory infection."

Overtime Law Would Boost Paper Prices, Industry Told

Be Solved, Executive Asserts

NEW YORK (AP)—A paper industry aide says paper prices would go up if the administration's overtime bill becomes law.

Joseph M. Rowland, vice president of public affairs for the American Paper and Pulp Association, said that the nation's $15 billion a year paper industry would be one of the targets of the bill.

The bill, backed by President Johnson, calls for double-pay instead of time-and-a-half pay for overtime in selected industries. The bill is aimed at curbing unemployment by encouraging hiring of new workers.

Wouldn't Solve Problem
Rowland told a meeting Monday at the industry's 87th annual Paper Week that the bill would not solve unemployment problems. For the paper industry, he claimed, it would merely mean increased labor costs and higher prices.

He said overtime in the paper industry is based on absenteeism. The extra pay, he said, goes to workers who fill in for absent workers at skilled jobs.

"If the bill is passed," Rowland told the meeting "it could mean hiring and training specialists today that the industry also would be hurt by the so-called 'truth-in-packaging' bill. The bill would require federal agency approval for some changes in product packaging."

Calls Present Laws Adequate
Rowland said the bill, aimed at deceptive practices, would only stifle creativity in package design. He called instead for enforcement of existing laws, on packaging which he said are adequate.

A trade authority, Morris C. Dubrow, said Monday that the paper and pulp industry could double its exports within five years.

Milwaukee Killed As He Crosses Street
The death of a Milwaukee man has raised Wisconsin's highway toll for 1964 to 134, compared with 81 on this date a year ago.

Eno E. Levanen, 51, of Milwaukee died in a hospital Monday a few hours after he was struck while crossing a street on the city's West Side.

I also came away with the feeling that this is a long-term business, and we aren't going to win the fight overnight.

Fourth Juror Selected for Ruby's Trial
Sessions Continue In Dallas Pending Legal Maneuvers

DALLAS (AP)—The fourth juror was selected today for the murder trial of Jack Ruby in Dallas.

He is Luther E. Dickerson, 27, a vice president of a chemical firm.

He testified that he did not see either the original or any reruns of the televised scene in which Ruby shot Lee Harvey Oswald.

Jack Ruby's attorneys said that, pending new legal maneuvers on disputed questions in his murder trial, they intend to continue with the hearings in Dallas.

"We're going to stay here for awhile and see what happens," Melvin Belli, chief of defense, told newsmen when he came into the courtroom this morning.

Court Ruling
He said Monday that he might go to the U.S. Supreme Court for a ruling on the question of the eligibility as jurors of many people in Dallas County, who saw Ruby shoot Lee Harvey Oswald on television last Nov. 24.

The defense contends that anyone who saw the televised slaying should not be seated as a juror. Another question raised by Belli is whether someone who witnessed the televised scene is competent to testify as a witness in the trial.

Ruby is charged with murder.

Prayer, meditation, and thoughts to take home and ponder were part of the Outagamie County Deanery Day of Recollection Sunday at St. Mary Catholic Church, Kaukauna. The theme was "The Modern Catholic Woman."

The program began with attendance at 10 a.m. high mass in the church. An 11:15 a.m. conference in the school gym preceded the noon dinner. Afternoon conferences were held and closing exercises given in the church at 3 p.m.

The Rev. Kenneth Rodgers of St. Patrick Parish, Askeaton, served as retreat master. Father Rodgers, ordained in 1943, was graduated from St. Norbert College and Kenrick Major Theological Seminary, St. Louis, Mo. In 1956 he served as coordinator of the fund raising drive for Xavier High School.

Private Counseling

One of the special features of this year's day of recollection was the opportunity to see the Retreat Master during his free hours for the discussion of personal problems.

Mrs. Edwin Vanevenhoven was hostess at the event in the absence of Mrs. Vernon J. Lamers, Combined Locks, deanery president.

Today's Etiquette

MEN'S STATIONERY

Dear Louise: I am thinking about ordering some personal stationery for myself with my name and address printed at the top. My wife says that I should include Mr. but that doesn't seem right. Please advise. What should be the correct size paper for a man, also what color?

Davis

Louise Davis Answers:

Your stationery should have a masculine look. For personal use, I recommend white, off-white or pale gray. An appropriate size would be about 10 1/2 by 7 1/2 inches. The lettering at the top should be conservative and in keeping with the paper such as black or navy blue. Pale buff for the paper and dark brown lettering would also be suitable. Your wife is incorrect about the Mr., so eliminate it.

INVITING EX-FIANCÉ

Dear Louise: I broke my engagement two years ago. Even though we parted amicably, the man was hurt. I am now engaged again and wedding plans are under way. I am wondering if I should invite my "ex" to the wedding and reception. I want him to feel that we're still friends, but wonder if he and his family would think that I'm showing off for his benefit. Should I invite him on the basis of friendship or would I be doing him a favor to ignore him?

Louise Davis Answers:

Your problem is difficult for an outsider to solve. Only you can guess your ex-fiance's feelings. But chances are that the wound has healed. Because your paths don't cross, perhaps it would be better that you don't invite him.

Warped Sliding Oak Door

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: The sliding door between my heated family room and cold attached garage is solid core oak. During the winter it bows outwardly, towards the garage, making the door difficult to slide. The door has been finished with a sealer and final coat of an alkyl base, synthetic resin. I suspect that the warpage is caused by moisture absorption in the door, but am not sure. What can I do to correct this condition?

A: Your suspicion is correct; the warm, humid family room air is condensing on the cooler areas of the door, expanding the wood fibers, the moisture gaining entrance through an unfinished (uncoated) area in the door. Usually the top and bottom edges of doors are overlooked, permitting moisture to enter here. Wait until the door has straightened, after the heating season, and then remove it for careful inspection and apply missing finish coatings.

Q: Our bathroom walls are covered with plastic tile half-way up and the upper half is painted. We recently re-enamelled the upper part and overlooked some paint splatters on the tile. How can we remove these without damaging the tile surface?

A: To remove paint splatters from plastic tile, use a solution made of one part pure turpentine (be sure not to use a turpentine substitute which would injure the tile surface), and three parts rubbing alcohol. If the tile finish becomes dulled, polish with a thick paste made of powdered chalk and water, followed by wiping with a dry, clean cloth.

Q: We would like to put wallpaper on our living room walls. These are now painted. However, we have a problem with soot collecting on the wall surface above the radiators. We could wash this off the painted surface, but the wallpaper won't be washable. Can you suggest a remedy?

A: A clear plastic coating, in aerosol form, for use on wallpaper, provides a protective, washable surface. Available at paint and wallpaper dealers and some hardware stores. Follow label directions carefully.

Dust and soot etc., drawn up from between radiator fins as heat rises, are the usual causes of grime and soot on the wall over a radiator. Try vacuuming between radiator fins to remove all possible dust. Place a sheet of do-it-yourself aluminum against the wall behind the radiator, curving it slightly at the top toward the radiator. This helps considerably in keeping grime off the wall, as well as making the radiator more efficient in heating.

SEAMS TO ME

By Patricia Scott

In the past I have stressed the importance of pressing—details involved, necessary equipment and finishing. Today I'll describe how to use your iron to the best advantage.

To press a fabric properly, some sort of dampening process is required. If there are but few wrinkles, a little moisture will do the trick. If there are sharp creases, such as the folds you find when the material is purchased, you'll need much more moisture.

If a fabric is washable, you can use water directly on the garment by applying a wet cloth just before pressing. If it is not washable, then steam must be used.

Test-iron a swatch of fabric to ascertain the amount of heat that is necessary. Generally, if you are using a press cloth or a fair amount of moisture, the iron can be hot. The temperature gauge on an iron (although not always completely accurate) is one index. Use the highest temperature for cotton and linen, medium for wool and silk, and low for rayon and synthetics. If the fabric is a blend, always use the low temperature. Your best barometer is experience.

When pressing with moisture or steam, a great deal of pressure is not required. Use the iron in an up-and-down motion instead of gliding or dragging it. This is especially important when pressing napped fabrics, wools and materials with a textured finish so that the surface is not flattened. The steam does the pressing, not the pressure.

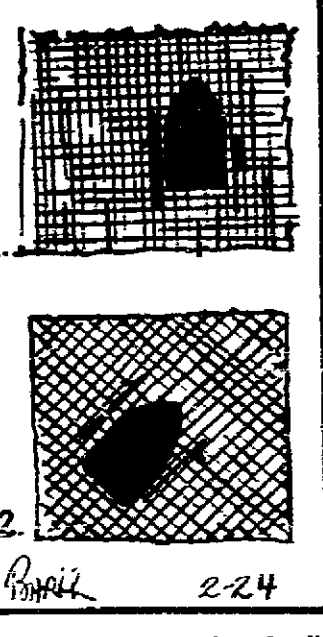

To straighten grain lines or smooth a fabric, use a gliding motion. To smooth—glide the iron with the grain line (Figure 1) To square up the fabric—glide on the bias (Figure 2).

After pressing, fabric should retain its original texture. Shiny finishes should still be shiny and dull finishes should still be dull.

The proper grain should be kept intact unless pressed off deliberately. The fabric should retain its shape.

Decorum Down Drain When Alcohol Goes Down Throat

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Why do people who have had too much to drink invariably peel out of their clothing? I have yet to see a person who is loaded put anything on—but an awful lot of drinkers seem to take things off. Usually it's the shoes that come off first—particularly with women drinkers. Next, they shed stockings, belts, earrings and so on.

I've worked as a waitress for a catering service for 19 years and have had plenty of opportunity to observe party drinkers. I have always been baffled by the inevitable disrobing process which usually begins after three martinis. What causes it?—Sardine Pusher

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Alcohol removes the inhibitions and produces a "don't give a darn" attitude. It also dilates the surface blood vessels which causes people to feel warm. Combine these two factors and you have the complete answer to your question.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Three years ago I married a bachelor who was 20 years my senior. He was kind, gentle and considerate.

I knew the score when I went into this second marriage. Romance was not in the picture. It was pure companionship. There may be taken by anyone over one was drawback—I had to accept two years of age and lifetime except his spinster sister since immunity is anticipated from their these oral treatments. The group will hear George Buckle, Appleton alderman, made but never once did I complain or let him know how abusive and domineering she was. Two months ago my husband died. His sister refuses to move out of this house. My husband owned the house outright and left it to me in his will. She says it makes no difference. The house is all she has left of him, and she will never move. He left her a nice trust fund which will take care of her if she lives to be 100. Please tell me how to get rid of this shrew—short of calling the police? This I will not do.—Martha

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a 16-year-old girl who is very mature for my age. I have been served liquor since I was 15 and no one has ever asked to see my I.D. card. I'm madly in love with a boy who is 17. He has given me his class ring which means we are as good as engaged. I am going to marry him. Nothing in the whole world can stop me. The problem is his mother. She hates me like poison. Whenever he wants the car to take me out she thinks up an excuse. Once when I was in her house and she wasn't there I accidentally burned a hole in the sofa. Like a dunce I called her the next day and offered to have the sofa repaired. Instead of being nice, and complimenting me on my honesty, she blew her top and ordered me never to come to her house again when she wasn't there.

I would give anything if I could get this woman to like me. Please give me some suggestions.—Chilled

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You are never going to get this woman to like you, so forget it. As a matter of fact, you aren't going to get any boy's mother to like you unless you straighten around, kiddo.

No mother in her right mind would approve of a 16-year-old girl who drinks, smokes and visits in her home when no adult is there. Where is your mother, Toots? Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope. (Copyright, 1964)

Tax Structure Discussed by Leo W. Mack

Leo W. Mack, trust officer of National Manufacturer's Bank, Neenah, was guest speaker for the Outagamie Chapter of Medical Assistants Wednesday at Appleton Memorial Hospital. Mr. Mack, an internal revenue agent for 20 years, spoke on tax history and the evolution of tax structure. He also explained a tax filing procedure and deduction. A question and answer period was held after the talk.

Dr. L. P. Williams announced the "Sabin on Sunday" clinics to be held in the county March 8 and April 19. The oral vaccine may be taken by anyone over two years of age and lifetime immunity is anticipated from these oral treatments. The group will hear George Buckle, Appleton alderman, made but never once did I com-

Spring Reducing Series

How trim is your abdomen? Unless it is flat and firm, make up your mind to slim down and tighten up. There's more at stake in taut lines than good looks for your figure and fashions.

The abdominal muscles act as a retaining wall for vital organs. And the wall is as strong as the muscles. When they are allowed to grow weak, the wall weakens and cannot properly gird the organs.

In the abdominal region, lax muscles are the result of excess weight, poor posture and insufficient exercise. Correction consists of three steps:

1. Pull in the abdomen when you sit and stand. Keep at it until the action becomes automatic. The effort tightens the muscles and teaches them good posture habits. It also has a direct bearing on reduction.
2. Perform this trimming exercise daily: Lie back down with knees drawn up and soles of feet on floor. Press spine to slow counts. Then very slowly slide heels down floor until calves touch it. Relax and repeat ten times.

3. If you are generally overweight, combine the other measures with a sensible diet.

Reducing Extra: Wear a firm girdle with a controlling front panel. It will assist your posture aims and, of course, it immediately improves appearances.

Midriff Slimmers

To solve the riddle of extra inches around your middle, send today for my leaflet, Midriff Slimmers. It contains quick, easy reducing exercises for slimming diaphragm, waist and abdomen. Write Mary Sue Miller in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover handling.

Use High Card for Signal

When a defender plays an unnecessarily high card he is trying to signal to his partner. This is fine when the meaning of the signal is clear, but some players have so many signals that they zag when they should be zigging.

East dealer
Both sides vulnerable

Don't bother to tell South and North that their bidding was unsound. They know it now, but they didn't know it at the time. They're happier that way: South thought his jump to three spades showed a long but not completely solid suit, with no side strength worth mentioning—very much as an opening bid of three. But North evidently assumed the spades were solid since he jumped to slam.

North should have been satisfied with game, and his mistake caused him to cry all the way to the bank.

West opened the king of hearts, and East played the queen of hearts—an obvious signal. That is, East was obviously trying to signal something—but what?

Wrong Meaning

West thought that the unnecessarily high card asked him to switch to the higher side suit, diamonds. When West led a diamond, dummy won and declared the nine of spades from dummy for a finesse.

The finesse worked, and declarer led the other spade from dummy to repeat the finesse. He then drew the last trump and ran the diamonds to get rid of his losing hearts. The score of 1530 points was quite satisfactory, all things considered.

East actually wanted hearts continued at the second trick. He wanted dummy to ruff, after which there would be only one trump in dummy to lead through the king of spades. East would eventually get a trump trick, defeating the contract.

East was right. The most important meaning of a high card is: "Partner, continue this suit. I like it."

There are times when a high card shows strength in a high side suit, but don't confuse these cases with the simple "come on" signal. Use a high card to ask for a switch only when it is clear to both partners that a continuation is unthinkable.

None. What do you say?

Answer: Pass. The hand is not worth an opening bid of one spade, but is far too strong for a shutout bid. Pass first and wait for a chance to bid secondarily.

(cellars) where the humidity and temperatures are kept at a moderate, cool level. Sherry is a blend of wines; the younger wines are carefully matched with the older ones, so that they take on the character of their elders. This matching, known as the "solera system," is done as storing wine in tiers of casks. Half the contents are removed from the casks in the top tier during each year. With- draws are replaced by a young- er, but similar type of sherry, and the casks are rotated from the top tier to the bottom. As a result, every bottle of Spanish sherry is the fruit of many harvests and there is no need to be concerned with vintage years.

Good Companion

Spanish sherries are "forti- fied" — completely fermented out and refreshed with brandy, which keeps them at the peak of flavor and insures their al- coholic content. Sherry is alone among wines in its ability to withstand the effects of tobac- co. Smoking, while drinking a glass of sherry, actually seems to enhance its flavor, aroma and character. It is not distur- bed by motion and this is why it is frequently called "the wine for travellers."

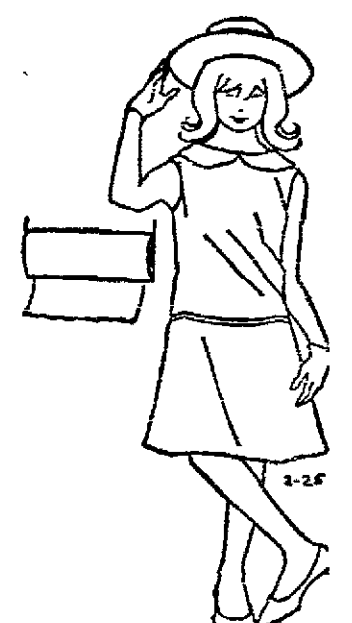

The most imitated of all wines, sherry is also the most versatile. It is the easiest to serve, requires no special glass, and goes with every food — is suitable for every occasion. It may be served chilled, on-the- rocks, at room temperature, with soda, or substituted for other liquors in familiar cock- tail recipes.

Most Spanish sherries come in three popular types: finos, amontillados, and olorosos. The finos (dry) are topaz in color— like sunlight, freshly fragrant and taste of almonds. The olor- osos are darker, almost golden with a ruby — like sparkle. "Sweetest" than finos, the olor- osos have more body and den- sity. They may be medium or sweet. The sweet oloroso — blended with PX (Pedro Ximn- ez), a honey-like wine, is used as a base for cream sherry.

Between these two general classifications, the third group of sherries, called "amontilla- do," were made famous by poet, Edgar Allen Poe. Amontilla- do has more color than fino. An Arabic inscription in the Alhambra speaks of Amontillado as "liquid, melted gold." It is dry, richer, and more aromatic with the mellow flavor of hazel- nuts.

TAFFY'S TIPS

By Dolly Martin

KEEP WHITE COLLARS WHITE

WHITE COLLARS should al- ways be kept snowy white and here's the way to do it. After you have washed the collar and ironed out every wrinkle, let it completely dry before sewing or snapping it back on your dress. Then, tuck paper towels around and inside the neckline before you hang it in the closet. rust and lint is bound to hang onto any white surface and even if you haven't worn this particular dress after it has been laundered, you still run the risk of a dingy-white cast when you take out the dress to wear. Do the same with cuffs or any white pocket flaps you may have on a dress. A pure white dress should always have a plas- tic bag covering it at all times. (Copyright, 1964)

Removal of Cyst Is Only Permanent Cure

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: On my low- er eyelid my doctor says I have a cyst. Exactly how does this differ from pink eye or a sty? Will hot fomentations help? Will a cyst open itself if it has proper treatment.

J.V.

Let's go at it back wards, which will make things clearer.

Pink eye is a sort of general term for inflammation of the ma- eye and the inside of the lids, caused by one or another type of germ.

A sty is an infection in one or perhaps several of the many tiny glands which surround the eyelashes.

Both of these usually clear up if reasonable care is taken not to let the infection spread.

The Lenten Story

BY WOODIE ISHMAEL

DARKNESS AT NOON

Before setting forth on the tragic road to Calvary, Jesus warned His followers of the dark and forbidding future.

He foretold the destruction of the temple and the fall of Jerusalem, only 40 years thence. He warned them that they would be hated and persecuted and eventually martyred for their beliefs. But for those who perse- vered, He promised life everlasting.

Finally, in some of the grandest and grimmest sen- tences in all literature, He foretold the end of the world: "The sun shall be darkened and the moon shall not give her light, and the stars of heaven shall fall, and the powers that are in heaven shall be shaken. And then shall they see the Son of Man coming in the clouds with great power and glory." (Mark XIV:24-26)

A. Where stock acquired after January 1, 1934 is sold from lots acquired at different dates the identity of the shares sold to him as those of the earliest acquisition. Had you acquired the stock before January 1, 1934 the basis would be the average cost of all shares of the same stock.

Q. I just sold some U. S. bonds for more than I paid. Is the profit taxable?

A. If you refer to series E, F and G bonds the increment is not taxable and any loss on series G bonds is not deductible. If you refer to postal savings bonds the interest is taxable. Profit and interest realized on federal securities, with few exceptions, is taxable on the federal return.

Q. I sold all the capital stock in my company to three associates and agreed not to compete. They paid a handsome price for my stock. Is it all to be reported as a capital gain?

A. No, under federal rules since the price you received for the stock in excess of the fair market value probably will be considered as ordinary income paid to you as consideration for the agreement not to compete. Yes, under state law.

A. Under a ruling you may deduct the fair market value of the stock on the day you moved from California to Wisconsin. This is a special ruling applying to former non-residents. Residents who receive a gift will value them at the fair market value on the date of the gift unless received between January 1, 1923 and July 30, 1943. Gifts received during this 20 year period will use the basis which would have been used had the sale been made by the last owner who did not acquire by gift.

Joyous Jewish Holiday Rites Start Wednesday

Appleton Synagogues Announce Services For Observance of One-Day Purim Feast

Purim, one of the most joyous Jewish holidays, will be celebrated by Jews in synagogues and homes throughout the world, beginning at sundown Wednesday.

The one-day festival, also called the Festival of Lots, commemorates the downfall of Haman, the Persian despot, through the heroic invention of Queen Esther and her cousin Mordecai.

Based on the Book of Esther in the Old Testament, the holiday is celebrated with special worship emphasizing religious liberty.

The holiday commemorates the stand taken by the Jews against the tyrant Haman, who demanded that all men bow down to him. When Mordecai, a Jew, refused to obey, declaring that he bows only to God, Haman turned his wrath against all the Jews and sought to destroy them.

Plot Thwarted

The plot was thwarted by Esther, the cousin of Mordecai, whom the king of Persia had selected as his queen.

Purim is called the Festival of Lots because the 13th of Adar, (the 12th Jewish month) was chosen by lot for the massacre of the Jews, but it was on this day the Jews defeated those who attacked them.

At synagogue services the Megillah, a scroll containing the Book of Esther, is reread and prayers are offered in thanksgiving for the love of freedom implanted in the soul of man. Children are given noisemakers to drown out the name of Haman each time it is uttered.

Parties, plays, pageants and festive meals add gaiety to religious school and home observances of the joyful day. Gift-giving and donations to charity also are part of the celebration.

Resemble Hat

One of the most colorful of the Purim observances is the eating of hamentaschen — little three-cornered cakes baked especially for the festival. They are supposed to resemble the hat of the tyrant Haman.

Beth Israel Congregation will hold an evening service at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday and a morning service at 7 a.m. Thursday. The Megillah, the history of the holiday, will be read at both services.

At Moses Montefiore Synagogue, the reading of the Megillah will be at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday. There will be no morning service Thursday.

Zion Temple will include the Purim observance in its regular service at 8 p.m. Friday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kaplan, 1751 N. Division St.

Kimberly School Board Raises Pay for Teachers

Base Salary Up From $4,750 to $4,900 for Beginning Teachers

KIMBERLY — The board of education voted Tuesday night recommendation to raise the base pay for beginning teachers from $4,750 to $4,900 per year effective with the 1964-65 school year.

In addition, board members approved a plan to reimburse teachers on a daily rate, based on base pay, for extra days worked beyond the school year of other schools in the area. Kimberly recently adopted a school year of 190 days for teacher with 185 teaching days. Other schools in the area have school years ranging from 180 to 185 days.

The board also approved a change in the pay rate for attendance at summer school and raised extra pay for teachers with master degrees from $300 to $400 per year. Under the new schedule, teachers will receive $10 per credit for off campus classes applied toward summer school attendance, $25 per credit for summer school campus attendance in the field of teaching and $40 for on-the-campus summer graduate work in their major field.

Previous Payments

Previously the board paid $10 per credit for summer school attendance and $25 per credit for summer school work in the graduate field.

The superintendent of schools was instructed to draw up a resolution authorizing maintenance men, clerks and other school employees to take advantage of the insurance benefits under the Wisconsin retirement plan. Previously only teachers were granted life insurance under the plan. Now others can get up to $1,000 life insurance for each $1,000 of salary.

The board approved a policy requiring tuition students to be enrolled by July 1 of the year they intend to attend classes. Action was taken after school administrators expressed trouble working late tuition students into class schedules.

A request from Elmer Krantzsch for $756 for painting of 63 doors at the new high school, which he felt were not part of the contract under the bid, was denied and referred to the vil-

Boy Treated for Minor Injuries After Train Drags Him 33 Feet

An Appleton boy who lay quietly on the railroad tracks while two engines and a portion of a train car passed over him, is in St. Elizabeth Hospital today being treated for minor injuries from the ordeal.

Timothy Mayne, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Burton Mayne, route 2, Appleton, apparently tripped at the front of the train and was dragged 33 feet before being dropped onto the tracks where he lay and waited for the train to pass over him. The accident occurred at Outagamie Street and Prospect Avenue about 4 p.m.

An eyewitness to the bizarre accident, Mrs. Oscar Boldt, 1715 Reid Drive, said she was parked nearby waiting for the train to cross and saw the boy walking backwards toward the train.

"Suddenly he turned," Mrs. Boldt recalled, "and seemed to walk right into the front of the train."

Between Rails

The youth apparently was caught on the front portion of the train then dragged 33 feet before he was dropped onto the track bed between the rails. Police said the portion of the steel track at the accident site was higher than normal and allowed room for the boy to lie without being struck by the undercarriage of the train.

Members of the train crew heading east on the tracks, had seen the youth go under the front of the train and quickly stopped the engine.

Said Nothing

Mrs. Boldt said she ran to where the youth was lying and he began to move. She told him to lie quietly. The boy said nothing to her, but did lie still. She said she thought at the time the boy was severely injured. She summoned police who called Lindy's Ambulance Service.

Ambulance drivers said the boy "seemed all right" when taken to the hospital. He talked little about his experience, but complained that his legs

Seymour Man Fined, Jailed On Tax Count

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Fines and sentences in the Milwaukee County House of Correction were ordered Monday for two cheesemakers who pleaded guilty to charges of federal income tax evasion.

Frank J. Radeske, 38, of Seymour and Paulus W. Winter, 48, of Pulaski appeared before Federal Judge Robert E. Tehan. A fine of $2,500 and 45 days in jail were ordered for Radeske, who is charged with reporting $3,711 in income and paying a tax of $311 in 1958 when his income was $20,787 and subject to a tax of $4,588.

Winter, operator of the Elm Lawn cheese factory in Seymour, was fined $500 and given a 30-day term. He was accused of reporting income of $4,193 and paying a tax of $841 in 1958 when he should have reported $966 and paid $2,113.

Power Failure Blamed on Relay

A faulty relay switch affected power in an area of downtown Appleton Monday night, Wisconsin-Michigan Power Co. officials said today.

Power "went off and on" several times in an area south of College Avenue, from Appleton to Drew Streets, it was reported.

Power company officials said the faulty switch was in the gas plant substation on W. Water Street. Crews were dispatched to repair the damage, a job which required about 20 minutes to complete, about 7 p.m.

Outagamie May Seek Airport Building Okay

Committee Would Include Terminal In 1964 Schedule

Outagamie County's airport committee, after receiving a favorable nod from the Civil Aeronautics Bureau last week, may attempt to seek approval of a resolution asking that the permanent terminal at the proposed Town of Greenville airport be constructed this year.

The terminal originally scheduled for phase two of the construction program, after the five base operations hangar is completed.

County Corporation Counsel A. W. Ponath confirmed today that a resolution asking that the terminal be included in 1964 construction plans may be drafted at a meeting of the airport committee March 6. The resolution would stand a good chance of being submitted for approval of supervisors March 9.

Ponath said he has asked that the airport designer, J. L. Donohue, president of the firm of Ralph Burke Inc., Park Ridge, be present at the meeting.

Under present plans, the five base operations hangar will serve as a temporary terminal until the terminal construction is completed.

School Board Told Students Rate Above National Average; Training Programs Outlined

Appleton public school children rate well above national averages in physical fitness tests, the Board of Education was told Monday.

Public school physical education teachers outlined the physical education program from the "big muscle activities" for primary pupils through interscholastic sports in the senior high school.

William Pickett, elementary physical education coordinator, told the board the program covers more than physical fitness, but that a good program does develop physical fitness. The teachers don't believe in working extensively on the physical fitness tests and spend only enough time on them to show the pupils the best way to do them, he said.

Appleton Averages

The teachers are now planning to figure out Appleton averages for the fitness tests, which will be above the national average, in order to make the youths work harder, he said. Pickett said four full time and one half time elementary physical education teachers meet and teach more than 5,500 youngsters every week. They teach one class each week and the classroom teachers follow through the rest of the week, he said.

The physical education program aims at teaching the whole child—physically, mentally, socially, emotionally, morally and in the area of safety, he said.

The program has a wide variety of activities which gives every youngster a chance to participate in several activities he likes, and also in some he doesn't like, which also is important, Pickett said. They usually don't like an activity because they don't know the skills, and once they learn them they like it, he said.

Program Planning
The program is planned so there is something the youngster can do but also some things he cannot quite do, so that he is always challenged, Pickett said.

The elementary program is interested in the development of skills, starting with teaching correct ways to do the basic things and then working on games involving those skills, he said. The program includes outdoor games and indoor units on

Report Fewer TB Reactors in School Study

47 This Year, 116 In 1963 Among Appleton Pupils

The number of new reactors to the tuberculin skin test given to Appleton pupils during February dropped to 47 from 116 last year.

A report by the school health department on the annual tuberculin testing program was presented to the Appleton Board of Education Monday. The annual program for fourth, eighth and 11th graders in all Appleton public and parochial schools is sponsored by the Outagamie County Anti-Tuberculosis Association.

Some 95.5 per cent of the 3,467 eligible pupils agreed to take the test this year. As a result of normal absenteeism, 91.8 per cent or 3,201 pupils were tested. This unusually high percentage of participation is a result of good cooperation by parents, according to Miss Lucille Lang, school nurse.

Total Reactors
A total of 47, or 1.4 per cent, reacted to the skin test for the first time, compared to 3.8 per cent in the 1963 clinic. There also are 107 old reactors, pupils who have reacted in previous years and were not retested. The total percentage of reactors in the three age groups is 5 per cent, compared to 5.9 per cent of those tested last year.

Once a person has reacted to the skin test, they ordinarily will always react to it, Miss Lang said. The school nurses urge parents of pupils who are reactor to have chest X-rays for the pupil who is a reactor and for themselves and to have skin tests for other children in the family. The school nurses conduct a follow-up survey on these recommendations.

Each succeeding year while the child is in school, the child is reminded to have another chest X-ray, Miss Lang said. This is because 50 per cent of active TB cases come from the group of known reactors, she said, so if reactors have an annual chest X-ray they will not be surprised by active TB.

The Anti-Tuberculosis Association pays the doctors and provides supplies for the skin testing clinics. The tuberculin is provided by the state board of health.

PTA Group Urges School Board to Take Federal Aid

The Roosevelt Junior High School PTA has urged the Appleton Board of Education to accept federal aid to education.

The board received a letter from the Roosevelt PTA Monday stating the PTA group had passed a motion at its February meeting "that the Board of Education re-evaluate its stand and accept federal aid to education where it applies to the Appleton public schools."

"We would appreciate your consideration of this proposal," the letter said.

The board currently is studying its policy of rejecting all federal aid, adopted in 1950. Board member Charles Buchanan has proposed that the board change its policy and accept National Defense Education Act funds for the proposed Einstein Junior High School.

A decision on whether or not to change the policy is expected this spring.

Oral Polio Vaccine Coming Via Plane

10 Outagamie County Clinics Planned for March 8, April 19

The equivalent to 100,000 other parts of the state and in doses of oral Sabin (polio) vaccine will wing its way to Appleton, arriving at Outagamie County Airport Thursday.

Outagamie County Medical Society officials said today the vaccine, purchased by the society, will be shipped here via North Central or private flight from New Jersey.

The vaccine will be administered to Outagamie County residents at 10 clinics to be held throughout the county on Sunday, March 8. It will immunize them against polio.

Men, women and children of all ages, the latter at least two months old, will be eligible to receive the oral dose of vaccine.

Biggest Shipment

The shipment of the Sabin vaccine will be the biggest in the Fox Valley region to date. In another development, Dr. Carl N. Neupert, Madison, state health officer, sent a letter to local health officials advising them the program of administering oral vaccine on Sundays, March 8 and April 19 is in keeping with recommendations of the State Board of Health advisory board.

The administration of type II and III vaccine has the great advantage that a third clinic will not be necessary, Dr. Neupert said.

"We know from experience in the community.

Authorities Seek Cat That Bit Girl

A large black and white stray cat which bit a 14-year-old Town of Grand Chute girl one week ago, is being sought by authorities to determine if the cat is rabid.

If the cat is not found, Sharon McGowan, 14, 2215 W. Spencer St., will have to undergo 14 anti-rabies shots. The shots are to begin next week, Constable John Arft reported.

The girl was holding the cat on the front porch of her home when the cat bit her on the hand. Arft said the cat was believed to be in the W. Spencer Street area.

New Principal May Be Appointed for AHS in About Month

A new Appleton High School principal may be appointed in about a month.

Appleton Board of Education interviewed two candidates for the opening in a committee of the whole session following the regular board meeting Monday. Herbert H. Helble will complete 39 years as AHS principal when he retires at the end of this school year.

Candidates to be interviewed have been screened from applicants. Supt. of Schools Royce E. Kurtz said Monday a decision is expected in about a month.

Other important openings coming up in school administration posts will be for a principal of the proposed Einstein Junior High School, scheduled for opening in the fall of 1965, and a principal for the proposed southeast senior high school, planned for opening in the fall of 1965.

scholastic competition in gymnastics and wrestling next year. William Spears, assistant superintendent, said the physical education program is an important part of the total curriculum and not "something extra, a fill-in." It begins as a skills program and culminates in sports, leisure time and interscholastic activities, he said.

Spears noted that AHS has won conference championships in both football and basketball this year, and said, "When And showing them how to do it is keeping me in shape. The first week is horrible," he admitted.

Roland H. Winter, Roosevelt Junior High School physical education teacher, told the board the junior high program follows the elementary pattern of activities but is more advanced. Appleton Gallery of Arts Exhibit Predicts Good Fox Cities Shows

BY JAY JOSLYN
Post-Crescent Sunday Editor

Fourth annual mid-winter exhibition of the Appleton Gallery of Arts augurs well for the art life of the Fox Cities. The show's locale on the sixth floor of the H. C. Prange Co. is drawing the largest crowds any art show here ever has drawn.

The display opened Monday and will run through Saturday during store hours. The exhibit has works by art students from 10 area high schools as well as the members of the Appleton Gallery of Arts.

Because of the addition of the great number of high school works of commendable merit it is apparent the current renaissance of interest in art here will be fed for some time to come.

All types of art media are exhibited by the youngsters, pointing to the high caliber and wide scope of the art curriculum in area high schools. Many of the pieces compare quite favorably with the works of the AGA members.

The show is divided into two lofty rooms. Although there is an excess of 350 pieces on display, with few exceptions resting high on the main room's wainscoting, each is given complimentary lighting and accessibility.

AGA Offerings

The main room is occupied by offerings of the AGA members.

As in each of the club's major semi-annual exhibits, this show demonstrates the remarkable growth of the artists in the AGA as different techniques and media are employed or surer understanding is revealed.

Kimberly Treasurer Sets Special Hours For Tax Collection

KIMBERLY — Special hours have been set up this week for collection of taxes as taxes must be paid by the end of the month to avoid penalty, according to Mrs. Katherine Lochschmidt, clerk-treasurer.

Friday office hours will be from 8 a.m. to noon and 1 to 3 p.m. while on Saturday the treasurer's office will be open from 8 a.m. to noon. Normally there are no Friday evening or Saturday collections.

Jail Term

OSHKOSH — Russel Sorenson, 41, 241 Webster St., Neenah, was sentenced to 30 days in the Winnebago County Jail Monday after he pleaded guilty of disorderly conduct. He was arrested at his home by Neenah police shortly after midnight Saturday.

Although there is some, the display has much less of the "art appreciator's" attempt at participation through borderline crafts.

The range of interpretations by AGA members is wide, touching all of the current forces in the art world with the exception of blatant "pop" art.

Perhaps the piece provoking the greatest comment is a large oil, "Genesis," by Gary Fushfeld. It is a white canvas carrying a large black form and a red spot. The artist says the painting is representative of

Ponath to Determine If County Can Donate To 'Alice' Contest

A legal study to determine if Outagamie County can contribute $1,000 to the expenses for the forthcoming Alice in Dairyland district competition in Kaukauna has been undertaken by County Corporation Counsel A. W. Ponath.

Ponath was asked to study the legalities of the donation from the county's executive committee.

The contest has been scheduled for May and has received the approval of the State Department of Agriculture. Chamber officials told the committee the chamber and the city of Kaukauna will donate funds toward the competition.

Ponath said the request would have to be "more detailed" to determine if county funds can be used for local celebrations or ceremonies.

Slight Decrease in TB Sanatorium Care Noted By Welfare Department

MADISON — What has been described by the State Department of Health as a "small but significant trend" toward less sanatorium care and more outpatient care for tuberculosis patients is shown in the experience of the tuberculosis hospitals in Wisconsin counties for the last year.

Outpatient visits during the year rose by more than 7 percent, while in-patient care declined by just under four percent, it was shown. The 14 county and two private sanatoria provided 33,641 patient weeks of care and handled 34,641 outpatient visits at a cost of $4,485,000, the board said.

Approve Permit for New Neenah Home

NEENAH — A building permit was issued to Robert Metz for a $15,000 home and attached garage on Bruce Street by the office of Carlton Williams, city building inspector.

The home is the 16th in Neenah this year.

the legislature again when it convenes in April. Reynolds' reference to Rock Island shows his understanding that the island purchase project and others suggested for the next two years may be sidetracked or defeated unless a settlement of the dispute is reached.

The Rock Island purchase cannot be completed only if the legislature enacts a new budget for the land buying program for the next two years. If such an enactment is not achieved, the state will be required to continue purchasing under the 1961-63 budget authorizations, which do not include the Door County recreational acquisition.

The state has a purchase option on the island with the heirs of the Thordarson estate, but it will expire relatively soon.

Conservation department authorities and the governor, a keen advocate of state ownership of the 900-acre wilderness tract in Lake Michigan, have been worried that the property ultimately may be sold to private developers.

Menasha Police Hunt Bowling Ball Thief

Three Found Guilty of Topsy Driving Charges

Three Fox Valley area motorists were found guilty of operating motor vehicles while under the influence of intoxicants and having their drivers' licenses revoked for one year.

— Glen S. Woloszek, 27, 413 1/2 N. Bennett St., Appleton, pleaded guilty Monday in Outagamie County Court, Branch 2, and was fined $175 and costs.

— Luther K. Volz, 52, route 1, New London, was found guilty today by a circuit court jury and fined $200 and costs.

— Elmer D. Strueck, 34, route 3, Clintonville, pleaded guilty Monday in Clintonville Municipal Justice Court and was fined $100 and costs.

A fourth man, Duane R. Win-

Woloszek was arrested by Appleton police Saturday after his auto hit a hole on N. Meade Street, and he lost control of the vehicle. The car skidded and hit a mail box and a utility pole before stopping on a front lawn at 3036 N. Meade St., police said.

Volz was arrested March 3, 1963, by state police on U. S. 45 south of New London. He tested 23 on the breathalyzer. A reading of .15 is considered evidence of intoxication.

Jury Deliberates

He pleaded innocent in the Outagamie court branch and requested a 12-man jury. Trial was shifted to Circuit Court. The jury deliberated more than one hour today before returning its verdict.

Testimony in Volz' case was heard all day Monday before Acting Circuit Judge Gustave J. Keller.

Strueck was arrested Saturday night by Marion Police Chief Jack Buetow. He was brought to the Clintonville police station, where he posted bond.

No Bridge for Street Extension

Official Spikes 'High Cost' Rumors At Combined Locks

COMBINED LOCKS — The head of the village streets committee today dispelled rumors that proposed extension of Williams Street would be costly because of a bridge over railroad tracks in the right of way.

"Just the contrary is true," said Marvin Schumacher, member of the village board. He said plans for the street extension call for a grade level crossing, and not a bridge.

The village board has urged persons circulating petitions asking the street be extended return completed signature lists to the board as soon as possible.

Because the street extension would cross the railroad tracks, it is necessary to obtain permission of the Public Service Commission (PSC). Petitions would help get PSC approval.

When approval to cross railway tracks is secured from the PSC, the community must then attempt to buy a 60-foot right of way. Little difficulty is expected since the land is mostly ravine property.

The village anticipates getting the fill to bring the ravine up to grade from other building projects in the community. A complete investigation will be made into the over-all cost of the extension before action is taken, Schumacher said.

The proposed extension would connect an older portion of the village located east of County Trunk N and north of County Trunk Z to a newly developed area known as the Wallace plat.

Our Redeemer Lutheran Church will have a vesper service at 7 p.m. Wednesday. The sermon title will be "The Christian Faith: What Is It?" The Luther League will present a drama of the passion entitled "The Trial." The Rev. Charles Briggs is pastor.

The Rev. Walter P. Scheitel of Freedom will be the guest preacher at the Lenten service in Mt. Olive Evangelical Lutheran Church at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday. The Rev. R. E. Ziesemer is Mt. Olive pastor.

Viennese Harpsichordist

BY DON VORPAHL

Of Lawrence College

We shared last night in what we feel must be one of the truly beautiful and genuine musical experiences to be found anywhere in our time, the playing of Viennese harpsichordist Isolde Ahlgrimm.

Miss Ahlgrimm appeared in concert at Lawrence College's Harper Hall, the third among this season's Lawrence Chamber Music attractions.

In quick, direct summary, her performance was breathtaking. Her art is developed to within a hairbreadth of perfection, warm, gentle and fresh. It is refined to the highest degree, and served with absolute humility and reverence.

Miss Ahlgrimm radiates an old world charm, in the term's finest sense. Her face is etched with determination, her every movement spells sincerity. Consequently, her music reflects all these

Even her chosen instrument reinforces her personality, as it should. For those who may not have heard a harpsichord program, we suspect there was a real treat in terms of color and the intimacy of literature.

There was, for example, a Suite on the Hungarian Revolution of 1848, written by the Italian harpsichord virtuoso Alessandro Poglietti. Surprisingly, this 17th century composer wrote in programmatic idiom, depicting the rebellion in a set of abstract dance movements. The Rebels' trial, decapitations and requiem were all there, replete with tolling bells, each setting clearly painted by the assured Ahlgrimm hands.

A series of short pieces from the Couperin "L'Art de toucher le Clavecin", of the late Baroque period, demonstrated the technical possibilities inherent in keyboard playing, and particularly, in the artist's own arsenal. Couperin's intricate embellishments were no problem for the tiny lady who handled them with grace and flawlessness.

Dramatic Work

But lest one should get the impression that her playing had sheer virtuoso intent, Miss Ahlgrimm offered a dramatic work from the Bach catalogue de manding both artist's and audience's heart and soul. A fervent "Chromatic Phantasia and Fugue in D Minor" left us awed with its driving power and dynamic gradation, certainly the signal achievements of the night.

Miss Ahlgrimm responded to encore applause by skipping onstage with two delectable variations, the 29th and 5th, from the Goldberg set of J. S. Bach.

Driver Tells Police He Left Mishap Scene to Get Aid for Passenger

Driver of a car which spun out of control on E. College Avenue and hit a yard light post in the 900 block Monday night, told police he left the scene of the accident and drove to Appleton Memorial Hospital to get first aid for his passenger.

Earl Lorenz, 19, 834 W. Packard St., was driver of the car which was heading west on E. College Avenue across the bridge when it spun out of control, jumped a curb, skidded over 200 feet and struck the lawn light.

Lorenz said that his passenger, Robert Thoma, 20, 620 N. Oneida St., injured his hand in the accident. He was taken to the hospital by Lorenz. Police later found the car parked outside the hospital after the accident had been reported by a citizen.

Physical Education Teachers Practice What They Preach

Appleton physical education teachers practice what they preach — or so they say.

It all came to light during a presentation on the public school physical education curriculum to the Board of Education Monday.

Asst. Supt. William Spears revealed that William Pickett, long-time mentor of the elementary physical education program, weighs one pound more now than when he graduated from college. "You're a living example of practicing your profession," he told the tall, lean Pickett.

When his turn to talk came, Roland Winter, Roosevelt Junior High School physical education teacher, said that "I weighed 265 pounds in college, and I weigh 265 pounds now."

Not to be outdone, Lawrence Witzke, Appleton High School physical education instructor, assured the board, "I am still at my college playing weight."

Kiwanis Plans 'Bean Feed' for Crossing Guards

There's an annual recipe around town that takes 200 pounds of baked beans, about 1,000 wieners more or less, the same amount of buns, 20 pounds of catsup, .30 pounds of relish, .12 dozen ice cream bars.

If you haven't already guessed what these big amounts of food are for, it's the annual bean feed for 550 boys and girls — all members of Appleton school safety patrols, crossing guards, plus various city dignitaries, school officials, and sundry Kiwanis Club members in charge of the event.

The 4 to 6 p.m. dinner Wednesday will not only be the 22nd one put on by the Kiwanians but it will be the 22nd held at Morgan School.

More than 65 Kiwanis members are working on the event under chairman Ted Gilleland. Committee heads working under him include Marvin Wrostad, in charge of kitchen and food procurement; Robert Kennedy, in charge of chairs; Armin Knoke, reception; Charles Banker, entertainment, and Roland Noek, advisor.

Planners at Oshkosh Recommend Backing Present County Port

OSHKOSH — The city planning commission Monday recommended the common council adopt a resolution backing the present Winnebago County Airport.

By unanimous vote the commission urged "that in conformity with the adoption of the comprehensive city plan, the city should assert itself where ever possible to promote, maintain and improve the existing Winnebago County Airport at its present location."

The recommendation will probably be brought before the council at its workshop session Wednesday night and be put in resolution form the following Wednesday.

Stolen Car in Seymour Crash

SEYMOUR — A car which had been reported stolen from Appleton Monday morning, hit another car, lurched out of control and hit a building on Main Street Monday while it was being pursued by Seymour police.

A 15-year-old Appleton youth who was driving the car has been turned over to Appleton police. Seymour Police Chief Bernard Plumb said he will confer with Appleton authorities to determine if charges resulting from the chase should be brought against the youth.

The car was seen by Asst. Chief Harland Thomson who was patrolling on Main Street. Area police had been alerted to the stolen car report from Appleton earlier in the day. The car is owned by Donald J. Smith, 1715 N. Morrison St., Appleton.

Gave Chase

Thomson pursued the car with his siren and red light. The youth's car passed another car, hit the rear tail light, then skidded out of control.

The car careened off the street and crashed into the Hitt-Corbin Building, nearly hit the Thomas Landwehr Jr., who had just entered the building.

The youth locked the doors of the car after the crash, but opened them when Thomson ordered him out of the car.

Damage to the autos was estimated at $1,500.

Wheat Deal Blamed for Cuban Trade Problems

BY FRANCES McKUSICK

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — The failure of the United States to persuade non-communist countries to invoke an economic blockade against Cuba can be at least partially blamed on our own wheat deal with Russia, Rep. Melvin R. Laird, R-Marshfield, charged today.

"We have been completely inconsistent in our demands on the sale of our surplus wheat to Russia," the congressman charged. "I have always opposed any sale of wheat to Russia under any circumstances, and my opposition has been strengthened with every new development involving the sale."

First, the Administration won over a certain segment of the population by saying the sale would be on a gold — payment basis only," continued the congressman. "This condition of sale was later relaxed when it was decided that the Russians could buy on credit, with the American taxpayers picking up the tab if the Russians defaulted on the import — export bank loan.

American Ships

"Secondly, the Administration won over another segment of the population by saying the wheat would be shipped on American ships and would provide additional jobs for American seamen," the congressman recalled. "We all know now that the Administration also reneged on this condition and it seems that present plans, if executed, will place more than 50 per cent of the wheat on foreign ship bottoms."

Pointing out that "We haven't followed through on one single original condition of sale in the wheat deal," Laird said that our sale of wheat to communist Russia in effect encouraged free nations throughout the world to negotiate trade agreements with Cuba and other iron — curtain countries.

"We just can't sell to the most powerful communist country in the world and then turn around and tell other nations to invoke economic boycotts against Cuba and other Russian satellites," he concluded. "It just doesn't make sense."

Draw Bug in Old Paperback, Make Own Moving Cartoon

BY CAPPY DICK

Use an old paperback book that your family will permit you to have for this fun-project! Open the front cover and draw a little bug in the bottom left corner of the first page as in "A" of Figure 1. Draw the bug's legs pointing forward as in "B" of Figure 1. The next bug picture should be drawn on Page 5 of the book, slightly to the right of the second bug. This time the legs should be pointed forward. The fourth bug is drawn on Page 7, slightly to the right of the preceding bug's position. The legs should be pointed backward. Continue drawing bugs until you have drawn one at the extreme right edge of the book. To see the bug "walk" across the book from left to right, flip the pages rapidly as in Figure 2. The results will be quite realistic as you see the animated bug move its legs as it proceeds from the left side of the book to the right side.

Words Often Misused: "Convenient To" should be followed by a person, and "convenient FOR" should be followed by a purpose. Thus: "This arrangement" will be convenient TO you," and "This book is convenient FOR reference."

Often Mispronounced: Pico (ornamental loops in embroidery); pronounce as "pee-koe," accent first syllable.

Often Misspelled: Equestrian (masculine), Equestrienne (feminine).

Synonyms: Haste, hurry, speed, swiftness, quickness, patch, rapidity, celerity.

Word Study: "Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day.

Today's word: IMPALPABLE. (that cannot be felt; intangible; so fine and delicate as not to be easily discerned. "His feelings about the matter are impalpable.")

Answers

1. Lake Baikal, in western Siberia, which has depths of more than a mile in some places.
2. Tigran Petrosian, of the USSR, who won the title on May 10, 1963, in Moscow.
3. About 85 per cent.
4. This distinction is claimed by Bloomington, a suburb of Minneapolis, Minnesota, which has so many babies that the median age is an incredible 19.6 years.

CHICAGO (AP)—The important part of the Big Ten basketball race resumes Saturday when co-leaders Michigan and Ohio State return to action.

While the two were idle Monday night, some of the also-rans jockeyed for position and Northwestern, Purdue and Indiana came out on top with home court victories.

Led by Richie Falk's record scoring spree, Northwestern swamped Iowa 98-76 and climbed into fourth place with a 6-4 record. Purdue squared its Big Ten record at 5-5 with an 85-74 triumph over Illinois and Indiana continued its climb out of the second division depths with a 108-82 triumph over Wisconsin.

Michigan, the nation's third ranked team, and Ohio State return to action Saturday with Michigan taking on Illinois in a regionally televised contest and Ohio State playing host to Indiana's onrushing Hoosiers.

19 Field Goals

Monday night, Falk scored 49 points as he dropped in 19 field goals and 11 of 14 free throws.

Falk's effort erased the previous Northwestern record of 40 points set by Joe Ruklick in 1959 and equaled by Rick Lopessa this year.

Purdue held a 46-33 halftime lead over Illinois and was never in trouble as sophomore Dave Schellhase scored 29 points. Skip Thoren topped Illinois with 18.

Aside from the games involving Michigan and Ohio State Saturday, the Big Ten schedule finds Wisconsin at Purdue, Iowa at Minnesota and Northwestern at Michigan.

Pistons Chop Celtic Lead To Half Game

DETROIT (AP)—Are the mighty Boston Celtics slipping?

The lowly Detroit Pistons beat them 115-113 Monday night for the Celtics' third straight loss. Now they lead the Cincinnati Royals by only one-half game in the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division race.

Celtic superstar Bill Russell was matched move for move by Piston rookie Reggie Harding, an NBA veteran of five weeks. Harding scored 23 points. Russell scored 21.

Harding grabbed 19 rebounds. Russell snared 25. But 18 of Harding's rebounds came in the second half and enabled the Pistons to come from behind and post their 17th victory.

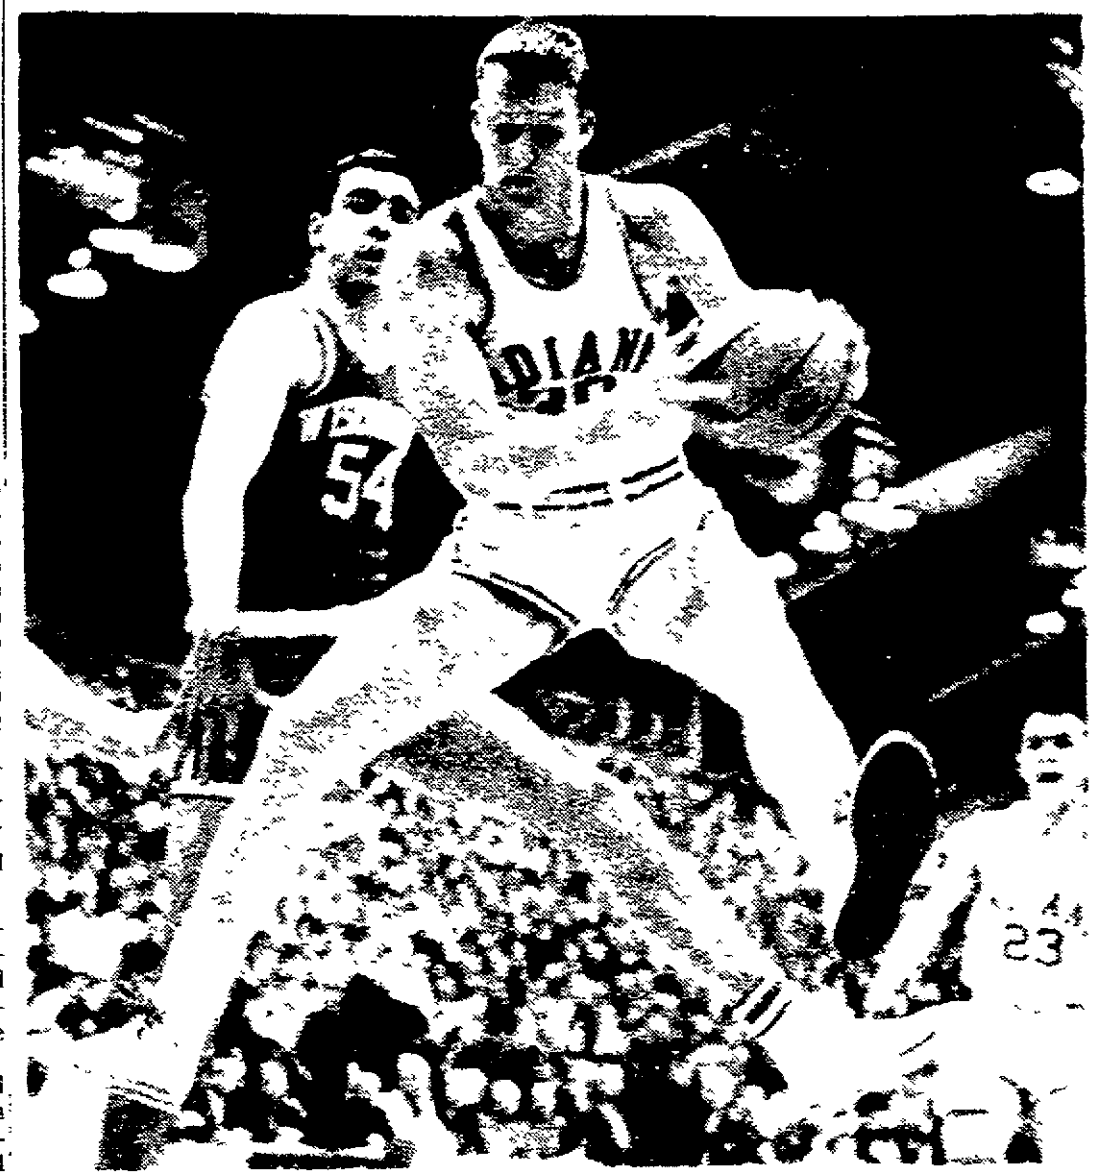

The last time the Pistons beat the Celtics was on Jan. 21, 1962.

Gary Geiger Has Ugly Operation

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Boston Red Sox outfielder Gary Geiger was operated on late Monday at St. Luke's Hospital in St. Louis for ulcers.

Mrs. Geiger said her husband "was resting well" in satisfactory condition. Geiger's wife said the outfielder would be able to report for spring training in about six weeks.

Geiger was brought to St. Luke's Hospital from Murphysboro, Ill., for the operation. Geiger, of Sandridge, Ill., hit .263 for the Red Sox last season.

Badgers Downed by Indiana; Warriors Bow to Valparaiso

Hot Hoosiers Push UW Deeper Into Cellar

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)—Wisconsin was given a painful lesson in basketball marksmanship Tuesday night in dropping a 108-82 decision to Big Ten rival Indiana.

The Badgers reacted as if caught in a stampede as the Hoosiers buried them deeper in the conference cellar with a 2-9 record.

Indiana's starters hit on 62.5 per cent of their field goal attempts before reserves were sent in to complete the rout with 10 minutes remaining.

The Hoosiers were even deadlier at the free throw line, cashing 20 of 21 attempts.

Wisconsin forced Indiana into two overtimes before bowing 82-80 at Madison, Wis., last week. However, the Badgers had another cold night in the

12th Straight Defeat Makes MU Losingest Team in History

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The was bitterly disappointed in our Marquette basketball Warriors attack.

Although bothered by Valparaiso's 2-1-2 or 2-3 zone defense, the Warriors out-gunned their opponents by a 29-24 margin in field goals. The Crusaders, however, cashed in at the free throw line.

Valparaiso connected on 26 of 39 attempts from the free throw line, including 21 of 30 in the second half when they capitalized on the bonus rule in the final 10 minutes. Marquette managed only 10 of 19 charity tosses.

Valparaiso, which had lost nine straight earlier this season, opened a 37-32 halftime lead and widened the margin to 10 points, 58-48, with 6 1/2 minutes remaining.

Marquette gradually cut the deficit. Joe Milmitt got hot, scoring 10 of his 14 points in the closing minutes. However, after Milmitt hit to pull the Warriors within two points, 66-64, with 2 1/2 minutes to go, Valparaiso moved out of danger on five free throws by reserve Paul Schulz.

Liston Rules 7-1 Favorite Over Clay in Title Bout

Miami Beach Ticket Sales Slow; Closed-Circuit Television Gross Expected to Reach $4-5 Million

BY WILL GRIMSLEY
MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—In a heavyweight championship bout in one minute, 28 seconds, Heavyweight champion Sonny Liston, the brooding destroyer, Jem Roach March 17, 1968, and is an overwhelming 7-1 favorite many are convinced this old —with virtually no betting— to mark will be broken.

Most observers predict the lights will go out for the boastful, poem-spouting challenger within minutes, perhaps seconds, after the scheduled 10 p.m. EST opening gong in Miami Beach's pink-and-blue Convention Hall.

The fastest knockout on record in a heavyweight championship bout is one minute, 28 seconds, Heavyweight champion Sonny Liston, the brooding destroyer, Jem Roach March 17, 1968, and is an overwhelming 7-1 favorite many are convinced this old —with virtually no betting— to mark will be broken.

He has knocked out his last three opponents — Albert Westphal of Germany and former titleholder Floyd Patterson, twice — in the first round, using a total of 6 minutes, 14 seconds.

The 23-year-old Clay, who says he "floats like a butterfly and stings like a bee," refused right up to the zero hour to assume the role of a man waiting for the modern guillotine.

"I'll outbox him in seven rounds and knock him out in the eighth," he insisted, adding his favorite poetic twist: "I'm predicting eight to prove I'm great."

His never-ending spool of "I'm the king—I'm the greatest" has failed to make a dent however, on boxing fans, who must shell out on a scale of $20 to $250 for one of the 16,900 seats. Indications were that they would stay away in droves.

Needing $800,000 to break even on the venture, promoter Bill MacDonald, the self-made Miami millionaire, said sales had reached only $330,000 and that only a last minute rush for the ticket windows could save him from a financial bath.

Handsome Pay Day
Meanwhile, a vast closed circuit television network, covering 269 theaters and arenas in the United States and Canada, is expected to gross between $4 and $5 million, assuring both fighters a handsome pay day.

If the over-all figure reaches $5 million, Liston, who also has a half-share in the parent promotional setup, stands to earn $1,360,000. Clay could draw $800,000, not bad for a young man who was an amateur four years ago on Uncle Sam's Olympic boxing team and who has literally gabbled himself to the threshold of the sport's greatest prize.

The bout will be televised to Europe via satellite communication and will be broadcast nationally by the American Broadcasting Company.

'Man-of-the-Year' Award Voted to Loyola's Ireland

LA CROSSE (AP)—George Ireland, coach of Loyola University's 1963 NCAA basketball champions, was named Tuesday the winner of the third annual "Man-of-the-Year" award by the Wisconsin Catholic basketball tournament committee.

Ireland, a Madison native who was a star guard on Prairie du Chien Champion teams which won the state Catholic title in 1930, '31 and '32, will receive the award before the championship final of the 35th annual tournament next Sunday at the Milwaukee Arena.

Previous winners of the award were former Marquette star Con Jennings and the Rev. David Rondou, who helped develop the Catholic tournament.

Clark and Kersten, St. Mary Alumni, to Clash in Tourney

St. Catherine's Only Four Losses Have Been by Narrow Margins

BY TERRY GALVIN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Gene (Torchy) Clark and Jim Kersten are alumni of Menasha St. Mary High School involved in the State Catholic high school cage tourney at the arena in Milwaukee at 4 p.m. Friday.

Clark, of course, is the coach at Xavier. Kersten is the head man of the Racine St. Catherine Angels, Xavier's opponent in the tourney opener.

Kersten was graduated from St. Mary in 1956 and played on Zephyr cage squads in 1954-55-56. He was a starter on the state championship '55 unit coached by Ralph McClone.

Teammates on that title team included Ron Dibelius, Ken Konkel and Bob Karisny, among others. Kersten matriculated to Marquette for further education and earned three varsity letters in the hardwood sport. Jim was the starting center on the 1959-60 Warrior quintet.

Coaches at Winneconne
His coaching career commenced at Winneconne High School, members of the Little Nine Conference, in 1960. He remained there for two years, then succeeded Coach John McGuire at St. Catherine.

Kersten left Winneconne after his squad had posted a 14-6 mark in '61-62. After a disappointing season in his debut at Racine, the former Menasha resident has watched his team record 18 victories in 22 outings this year. The Angels finished with a 12-4 mark in the Catholic conference in the Milwaukee area.

By Five Points
The four losses suffered by the Angels were by a total of five points. St. Benedict of Milwaukee boasts the largest margin (two points) over the Angels, but it took the victors a double overtime for the accomplishment.

Posting 1-point victories over the Angels were Milwaukee Keokuk, champions of the Catholic loop; Milwaukee Pius XI and Marquette also of Milwaukee.

St. Catherine led the loop in scoring with an average of 71 points per outing. The Angels were fifth defensively, allowing 63 points per game.

Averages 18 Points
Dan Koenings is the big man in the Angel offense. Koenings, a 6-2 senior frontliner, boasts an 18-point average. Mark Miller, the tallest member of the starting unit at 6-3, is averaging just over 15 points per game with Steve Jansta at 5-11 rippling the cords at a 13-point clip.

Jansta stands 5-11. Tom De-9 players over the weekend. Mark, a 6-1 junior, and Mickey when left handed pitcher Bill Postorino, a 5-9 junior round out the starting quint. Both are average Martin stands 6-2, weighs 210 pounds, and hails from Glen Burnie, Md.

The Foxes also have announced eight Monday nights as Opti-Letsch, 5-9 junior, Roy Hagen, mist Knot Hole Gang and 5-11 junior, and Jay Londere, a Ladies' Night affairs. The dates 6-0 sophomore forward, Hagen's are May 18 (Clinton), May 25 preference is the backcourt with (Dubuque), June 8 (Decorah), July 13 (Clinton), July 20 (Decorah), Aug. 3 (Decorah), and Aug. 24 (Decorah).

Respite Offered in Civil Rights Fight

Democratic Leaders Await Presidential Nod on Bill For Wheat-Cotton Subsidies

BY JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic leaders offered President Johnson today a chance for congressional action on a farm bill in exchange for what they believe would be a brief delay in taking up civil rights legislation.

A presidential go-ahead would signal an effort in the Senate, probably Wednesday, to call up the House-passed civil rights measure and put it in temporary storage while a wheat-cotton bill is debated.

This would delay the start of an expected lengthy civil rights filibuster until about March 2. Awaiting expected House approval, the Senate was ready today for its final action that would send the $1.5 billion tax reduction bill to Johnson.

Johnson has been pushing hard for early action on civil

Knowles Seeks Direct Path to Medical Care

Says Kerr-Mills Plan Must Have An Opportunity

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Warren Knowles, campaigning for the Republican nomination for governor, said Monday there must be no inflexibility in the approach to health insurance and medical needs of older people.

Knowles told an Eau Claire meeting of the medical society for Eau Claire, Chippewa and Dunn counties. "We must give the Kerr-Mills plan of medical care for the aged an opportunity to function in Wisconsin."

Effective July 1

Noting that the plan will go into effect July 1 with nearly $3 million in state funds matched by federal money to carry the program through the rest of 1964, Knowles said, "I foresee a time in the near future when the state contribution alone to this program could be $10 million per biennium."

"There are other proposals coming along from time to time... it would be unwise to reject out of hand any new ideas until we test it against the problem we face..."

Court Candidate

Harry Larsen, who seeks nomination as a candidate for the State Supreme Court, said Monday night at Neillsville "I have no objection whatsoever to the poll" by the State Bar of Wisconsin on the qualifications of the three candidates who will be in the primary March 10.

But Larsen, a Superior attorney, added, "I do have two suggestions—that the Board of Governors of the bar prepare and make public a statement as to what they consider the qualifications of judges to be," and "that they make an investigation of each candidate as to whether he does or does not possess such qualifications and make their findings available to the lawyers and the public."

The six nonpermanent council members met Monday night and decided to seek a compromise. The six are Bolivia, Brazil, Czechoslovakia, the Ivory Coast, Morocco and Norway.

Moroccan delegate Ahmed Balafrej was expected to put forward a compromise proposal in an address to the council. There was no indication how it would deal with the main issue splitting the five permanent council members — the United States, Britain, the Soviet Union, France and Nationalist China.

That obstacle is the Greek Cypriot government's demand that any Security Council resolution on Cyprus guarantee the island's independence and territorial integrity.

Bomb Blast At Integration Leader's Home

PRINCESS ANNE, Md. (AP) — A midnight explosion and a burning cross lent fresh urgency today to informal attempts to mediate a festering dispute over restaurant segregation.

Members of the town's biracial committee planned to speak privately to restaurant owners who refuse to serve Negroes.

Committee members were hopeful racial bars would be lowered voluntarily.

Student integration leaders had called a one-day halt on demonstrations to give the committee an air of quiet in which to work.

Bomb Explodes Near Home

Monday night a bomb exploded outside the Princess Anne home where a student leader lives.

The bomb dug a shallow hole in the yard of Leon Gates, an accountant at Maryland State College.

Gates, his wife, and their two daughters were in the house when the bomb went off. No one was injured.

Gates is the uncle of John Wilson, 20, a Maryland State junior who has been leading Negro student demonstrations against the restaurants since last Thursday.

An hour before the explosion a cross was burned on the practice football field of the college, whose enrollment is 90 per cent Negro.

Schlitz Order Is Continued Indefinitely

U. S. Firm Enjoined From Control of Canadian Brewery

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A temporary restraining order enjoining the Jos. Schlitz Brewing Co. from exercising control over a Canadian brewing firm was continued indefinitely Monday while attorneys attempted to resolve a key problem.

N.S. District Court Judge George B. Harris continued the order he issued Feb. 19 at the request of the antitrust division of the United States Justice Department. The department opposes Schlitz plans to assume control of John Labatt Ltd. of Toronto, through a stock purchase.

Delay Approved

The delay was approved after Arthur B. Dunn, attorney for Schlitz, which has its headquarters in Milwaukee, and Lyle L. Jones, an antitrust division attorney, said they were trying to work out a solution to a key problem.

Dunn told newsmen that the attorneys want to work out some kind of assurance not to disturb, pending the hearing, the competitive situation between Lucky Lager Brewery, owned by General Brewing Co., owned by Schlitz.

950,000 Shares

Dunn told the court he has been advised that Canada Trust Co. of Ontario, which gathered 950,000 shares of publicly-owned Labatt stock, has paid the stockholders and that a certificate covering the shares now is in possession of the Bank of Nova Scotia, Toronto. He said he understands the certificate will remain there pending outcome of the San Francisco case.

Judge Harris asked and received assurance from Dunn that the stock would remain in escrow pending the outcome of the government's suit.

Separatist Leader Sees Danger to Queen If She Visits Quebec

TORONTO (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II will be in danger if she visits Quebec, a French Canadian separatist leader said Monday night in the second such warning against the royal visit in October.

"Some of my own people are ready to let her know—and brutally—that she is no longer welcome in French Canada," Dr. Marcel Chaput told a meeting of the Young Men's Canadian Club. Chaput is a former leader of the Quebec Republican party, which wants to separate French-speaking Quebec Province from the English-speaking portion of Canada.

Daughter of Former Journal Correspondent Dies in Convulsion

WASHINGTON (AP) — Marcia Kapenstein, 4-year-old daughter of Post Office Department press officer Ira Kapenstein, died Monday apparently the victim of a convulsion. The child was found dead in bed.

Kapenstein was Washington correspondent of the Milwaukee Journal before assuming the post office job last November. He and his wife have two other children, Joel, 6, and David, 2.

NFO Demonstration

Mayer Plant Getting Meat Despite Pickets

MADISON (AP) — A few Dennis Dwyer, an NFO spokesman from Beloit, said the receiving gate at the Oscar Mayer and Co. meat processing plant Monday evening but a demonstration by the National Farmers Organization continued into the night.

NFO members took up places at the gate about noon Monday with the apparent intention of discouraging farmers or truckers from making deliveries. The receiving gate was closed later, but opened to permit the entry of late-arriving trucks that had loaded before the demonstration was started.

The company said there was no curtailment of production.

The NFO staged a number of demonstrations at the gate last year. The number of NFO members participating in Monday's demonstration ranged as high as 400, according to the estimates of observers.

There were no incidents.

A company spokesman said there had been meetings with NFO representatives and he "assumed" they included contract discussions, but the spokesman emphasized there had been no "negotiations."

Break in Deadlock Sought

U. N. Security Council Schedules More Debate on Cyprus Situation

BY A. I. GOLDBERG
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. Security Council scheduled more Cyprus debate this afternoon as its six nonpermanent members sought to break the deadlock and Cypriot President Makarios threatened to seek a special session of the General Assembly.

The afternoon council meeting was called to evaluate Secretary-General U. Thant's private peacekeeping efforts in the face of continuing bitter hostility between the island's Greek Cypriot majority and its Turkish Cypriot minority.

The council president, Carlos Alfredo Bernardes of Brazil, said there was no evidence Thant had been able to reach agreement with Cyprus, Britain, Turkey and Greece in a week of talks on his proposals, which include an international peace force for the troubled east Mediterranean island.

Hope for Compromise

The six nonpermanent council members met Monday night and decided to seek a compromise. The six are Bolivia, Brazil, Czechoslovakia, the Ivory Coast, Morocco and Norway.

Moroccan delegate Ahmed Balafrej was expected to put forward a compromise proposal in an address to the council. There was no indication how it would deal with the main issue splitting the five permanent council members — the United States, Britain, the Soviet Union, France and Nationalist China.

That obstacle is the Greek Cypriot government's demand that any Security Council resolution on Cyprus guarantee the island's independence and territorial integrity.

Informants in Nicosia said Makarios may ask for a special General Assembly session because he feels nonaligned African and Asian nations would back his plea for guaranteed independence and territorial integrity and push it through despite Western opposition.

Banks Urged to Guard Against Being Held Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the arranged by the American Bankers Association.

BANK HOLDUPS: Noting that banks are being held up almost as often as in the heydays of the Dillinger gang, a House subcommittee has charged that neither banks nor federal agencies are doing enough about it.

The subcommittee, headed by Rep. Dante B. Fascell, D-Fla., urged federal banking agencies to consider regulations that would require banks to take more steps to guard against robberies and embezzlements.

CUBA: An investigating committee has reported to the Organization of American States that Cuba sought to overthrow Venezuela's government and directed similar activities against other Latin American countries.

The committee was not called on to make recommendations nor did it.

Alabama Defeats Kentucky, 65-59

UCLA Continues to Roll Along, Tips Washington for 23rd Win

BY BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

When Kentucky was apparently on the eve of winning its way into the NCAA basketball tournament, Adolph Rupp was asked to compare the team with some of his other squads, notably national champions.

"I won't. I can't," said the Man in the Brown Suit with a wisdom born of more than three decades coaching college basketball. "They haven't won any titles yet."

He was prophetic. Monday, with a chance to secure the Southeastern Conference title and the accompanying NCAA berth, the Wildcats, the nation's second-ranked college team, blew one to upstart Alabama 65-59. Now it will go down to the last day of the SEC regular season.

But mighty UCLA, all alone at the top of the heap, rolled right along as the only major unbeaten team. The Bruins hurried over Washington 78-64 at Seattle, clinched the Big Six title, became the 12th entrant in the 25-team NCAA field and extended its record to 23-0.

Of the other four teams in action Monday, all NCAA at-large choices, only Seattle stumbled, 95-83 before Montana State. Defending champion Chicago Loyola, ranked No. 10, whipped St. Louis 79-66, Texas Western blasted New Mexico State 90-54 and Utah State romped over Montana 103-81.

In another major game, Colorado stayed alive in the Big Eight title chase with a 56-54 edge over Oklahoma State.

Hall is only 73 points behind teammate Stan Mikita in the individual point race. Mikita leads with 75 points, Hull was 72 and Montreal's Jean Beliveau 69.

Hall is only 3 points behind and Beliveau's 46 assists are tops in that department.

Television Package Deal Being Considered by Baseball

WASHINGTON (AP) — Professional baseball may sell television rights to some of its games on a package basis, with all teams sharing equally, by next season, Broadcasting magazine reports.

The network plan receiving the most attention from a major league committee, the magazine said Monday, "is a no-black-out national game on Monday night," which could be worth about $16 million to the 29 major league teams.

This year, with each team selling its own television rights, the 29 teams stand to rake in an estimated $13,575,000, compared with about $13 million last year. The 22 teams in the American and National football leagues are receiving about $15.2 million for their 1964 games.

In addition to the individual rights, the All-Star game and World Series will add $3.5 million to the total take, and 12 teams will share about $1.7 million in rights for CBS-TV and NBC-TV weekend telecasts.

The New York Yankees lead major leagues, receiving $1.2 million for their individual rights plus a large share of the

Rams Remain in Coliseum; New Seats Planned

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Coliseum Commission approved a new 10-year contract Monday to keep the Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League in the Coliseum.

Under terms of the contract, the Coliseum must install 63,500 theater-type seats. Some of the seats will be built on mobile sections to reduce the stadium's capacity and improve viewing for football.

The Coliseum can seat 100,000 persons for football. Rams' owner Dan Reeves had threatened to pull the team out of the Coliseum and move to Los Angeles Dodger Stadium if new seating was not installed.

The contract must now be approved by the city council, board of supervisors and the directors of the California Museum of Science and Industry.

Neenah at Madison

Kaukauna warmed up for its Thursday meeting with unbeaten Roosevelt by scoring a 50-41 victory over winless Menasha in a Fox Valley Freshman Basketball game at Menasha Monday afternoon.

In the only other game scheduled, Madison withstood a late Kimberly rally to take a 55-52 win over the Papermakers.

In addition to the Roosevelt at Kaukauna clash Thursday, other games include Menasha at Wilson and Neenah at Madison.

Kaukauna scored the first 15 points of the game Monday and had little trouble building a 20-4 lead over Menasha. Kaukauna's starters played only the first and third periods and the Blue-jays managed to cut the score against the reserves.

Pat Kavanaugh scored 13 to lead Kaukauna while Dave Shukoski was high for Menasha with 12.

Madison had a 10-point lead over Kimberly midway in the final period when the Papermakers put on a full-court press and managed to cut the margin to three points, but never any less than that.

Ken Fries paced Kimberly with 20 points, 10 on free throws and Bruce Weiland added 18. For Madison, Mike McCollum led the way with 23.

Menasha (4-15-10-12-21) Shukoski 22, Kelly 6-0, Sheriff 6-0, Kenney 4-0, Jensen 2-2, Janusz 0-0, Kuhl 2-2, Robinson 2-2, 16-12.

LSC Scores Victory in Dual Meet

The Lawrence Swim Club scored a 125-67 victory over the Menomonee Falls Swim Club in the latter's pool Sunday.

The Downie girls, Norma and Daneta, paced the LSC with an accumulative total of five first place finishes. Norma copped three individual titles in the 10-under bracket with Daneta man-aging a pair of victories in the 11-12 division.

Norma and Daneta also shared in three relay victories.

Candy Neuman paced the Ap-pleton club in the 13-over field, with two individual titles and a share in a pair of relay victo-ries.

The Lawrence winners were:
10-Under
200-yd medley relay — Lawrence (Norma Downie, Colleen Ken-za, Lori Wilson, Sue Peiffer), Time 2:57.7.

Charlie Buss Gets Decision In Louisville

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Four boxers from Kenosha, Wis., punched out decisions and two others were defeated Monday night in the opening bouts in the National Golden Gloves Tournament.

Charlie Buss of Kenosha out-pointed Ken Pritchett of Bill-ings, Mont., in a 135-pound bout; Jimmy Caldwell beat Wil-liam Boyd of Buffalo, N.Y., in a 147-pound scrap. 175-pounder John Letourneau defeated Nel-son Stovall of St. Louis, and heavyweight Charles Littleton beat Phillip Smith of Hunte-ington, W.Va.

Dick Schomer, a 112-pounder from Kenosha, was outpointed by Reuben Peters of Billings, and the fifth member of the Kenosha team, Ted Beaudou, was outpointed by Gary Brown of Denver at 160 pounds.

Billy Rothmiller of Kenosha lost to Earl Large, Reswell N.M., in a second round bout of the 112-pound division.

Liston-Clay Sidelights No Heavyweight Title Fight Has Gone Distance Since '54

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Every heavyweight title fight in nearly nine years has ended in a knockout. The last one to go the distance was champion Rocky Marciano's 15-round de-cision over Ezzard Charles, on June 17, 1954.

If undefeated Cassius Clay should upset champion Sonny Liston he will join an elite group of three heavyweight rulers who had won all of their pro fights before ascending to the throne. The only others were John L. Sullivan, Marciano and Ingemar Johansson.

UCLA Holds Lead in Poll Kentucky Climbs To Second Place; Michigan Third

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rolling merrily to its first undefeated season in history, UCLA maintained its grip on first place for the eighth straight week today in The As-sociated Press major college basketball poll.

The Bruins grabbed a near-monopoly on firstplace votes in the latest poll, being named at the top on 38 of the 42 ballots cast. Their total points—416—placed them well ahead of sec-ondranked Kentucky, which switched places with Michigan, No. 3 this week.

The voting was based on games through last Saturday.

UCLA's vote - getting power was based on 22 games won by the Bruins were named second on the other four ballots, mark-ing the first time they have been given all first and second place votes.

Kentucky leapfrogged over Michigan, which lost its third game in 21 last week. The Wild-cats had 358 points, the Wolver-ines 332.

Duke held fourth place despite its loss last week to Wake For-est. Wichita moved up a spot to fifth displacing Villanova, whose defeat by St Joseph's sent the Wildcats reeling to eighth. Davidson also rose one notch to seventh.

Cooper Gains Decision Over Brian London

Victor Wants No Part of Liston, Will Fight Clay

MANCHESTER, England (AP)—Henry Cooper, a 29-year-old Briton, today reigned as British, British Empire and Eu-ropean heavyweight champion and immediately let it be known he wanted no part of Sonny Lis-ton.

Cassius Clay, perhaps, or even Floyd Patterson. But Liston? No thanks very much, says "Our Enemy."

Liston defends his world heavyweight crown against Clay in Miami tonight.

Cooper added the vacant European title to his British crowns by outpointing Brian London over 15 rounds Monday night. Cooper jabbed, hooked and cutaway with his left to take the victors. Neither Cooper nor London achieved a knock-out, but both suffered eye cuts.

Cooper's manager, Jim Wicks, said: "If Clay wins his fight against Liston then we'll chal-lenge for the title. If Liston wins then we want no part of him."

Cooper has now held the Bri-tish title for five years. He won it from London whom he defeat-ed over 15 rounds in January, 1959.

The husky, bruising Londoner, admitted after that fight he had been given a "good hiding." He took another one Monday, run-ning out of steam over the last few rounds after his early two-fisted mauling tactics had been contained.

Tom Runs 70-100 Miles a Week Coach, O'Hara See 3:53 Outdoor Mark

CHICAGO (AP)—Over a mud-littered board oval of Madison Square Garden.

He and his coach, Jerry Weil-land, are convinced he can run around 3:53 outdoors, smashing the world mark of 3:54.4 held by New Zealand's Peter Snell.

"Given ideal weather and track conditions, and competi-tion from a sub-four minute field of runners, Tom will do a 3:53 or 3:54 this summer in Cali-fornia," Weiland said today. "He is capable of running three-quar-ters under 3:00 and still have a kick left to take the last quar-ter in :55 or a little less."

At 130 pounds, red-haired O'Hara is a bag of bones held up by well-developed legs and thighs.

Wants Berth

"I'm not thinking about rec-ords," said the soft-spoken, un-assuming Loyola of Chicago business senior. "I just want to make the U.S. Olympic team, and make a good showing in Tokyo. I honestly think I can do 3:53 outdoors. But my only thought is to run to win."

His university hasn't even got a track or field on which to practice. The team works out in the Chicago Armory, and when O'Hara jogs around on the dirt there, he has to keep out of way of polo ponies.

Business Outlook Becomes Brighter, Leaders Believe

Record in First 100 Days

BY DARDEN CHAMBLISS
NEW YORK (AP)—As President Johnson ends his first 100 days on the job, many businessmen say the business mood has brightened.

The consensus of business leaders interviewed on a cross-country tour appeared to be that whatever the precise reason and however long it will last, the business climate has turned sunnier.

This isn't a matter of partisan politics. It's a question of whether businessmen feel Johnson is running the country in a way that generates confidence and encourages business to expand, build new plants and make new jobs.

Additional Spending
Ben S. Gilmer, president of Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Co. in Atlanta, says his firm's capital spending plans for 1964 had been $403 million but have now been boosted to $413 million.

In Denver, Cris Dobbins, president of Ideal Cement Co., said, "We are laying out capital plans today that I'm quite sure we would not be considering if things hadn't changed."

The change could prove to be illusory, however, some businessmen insist. It could involve a more conservative than he will his wife, Gloria Jean, 26, last probably prove to be, said Neil Oct. 12.

Encouraging Outlook
Edwin P. Neill, president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, said recently that he is withdrawing support of Johnson because he feels Johnson juggled his budget to present a "false face of frugality."

But whatever businessmen finally conclude when they've had more time to study Johnson, most of the leaders interviewed said that the signs so far have been encouraging.

President Elmer Engstrom of Radio Corp. of America, a member of the Business Council that advises presidents, sought to describe what's happened in business.

"In business, we look for go signs and stop signs," he said in his office. "We watch for signs whether the administration is friendly or unfriendly to business. These are not things that can be supported by physical facts. But we get the feeling that President Johnson is friendly, and this assessment is being strengthened."

Dr. Engstrom continued in careful, measured language, "Mr. Johnson has shown himself to be determined. With the tax cut bill, there has been movement. He seems to get things done, you see."

In addition to the tax bill, Engstrom cites favorably Johnson's talk of economizing in government and reducing the federal deficit.

The one-time page boy, who acquired wealth and power in some 20 years of working for the Senate, invoked his 5th Amendment protection against possible self-incrimination in refusing to answer most questions or to surrender subpoenaed documents.

The hearing in the packed Senate caucus room exploded into a row when Baker's lawyer, Edward Bennett Williams, accused the Rules Committee of staging a television spectacular and asked that TV cameras be removed.

Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., demanded that Williams withdraw his statement about the committee or be expelled from the hearing room.

Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., said Williams' statement was "totally and thoroughly unwarranted."

Williams said that, since the committee knew that Baker would refuse to surrender subpoenaed documents, or to answer questions, the hearing could serve no legislative purpose, but was being held solely to hold Baker up to obloquy before television cameras.

He requested that Baker be excused from appearing.

Baker resigned last Oct. 7 as secretary to the Senate's Democratic majority, after questions were raised about his outside business and financial dealings. His Senate job paid $19,600 a year.

Herbert Hoover Said to Suffer Severe Setback
NEW YORK (AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover has suffered a "serious setback" in health, a spokesman said today.

A hospital room has been reserved for the 89-year-old former chief executive, who resides in the Waldorf-Astoria hotel.

The family of the 31st president said last June that his strength had been ebbing from anemia caused by intestinal bleeding.

He had undergone surgery the previous August at Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center for removal of a cancerous tumor of the intestinal tract.

Hoover had been relatively inactive in recent months. One of his last public appearances was at a reception in May honoring Maj. Gordon Cooper Jr., the astronaut, for his 22-orbit flight.

Today doctors described his condition as "fairly satisfactory."

They said: "The present illness is due to bleeding from the right kidney, probably secondary to a kidney stone."

"The clinical picture has been complicated by a respiratory infection."

Overtime Law Would Boost Paper Prices, Industry Told

Be Solved, Executive Asserts

NEW YORK (AP)—A paper industry aide says paper prices would not solve unemployment will go up if the administration's overtime bill becomes law.

Joseph M. Rowland, vice president of public affairs for the American Paper and Pulp Association, said that the nation's $15 billion a year paper industry would be one of the targets of the bill.

The bill, backed by President Johnson, calls for double-pay instead of time-and-a-half pay for overtime in selected industries. The bill is aimed at curbing unemployment by encouraging hiring of new workers.

Rowland told a meeting Monday at the industry's 87th annual convention that the bill would require federal agency approval for some changes in product packaging.

Rowland said the bill, aimed at deceptive practices, would only stifle creativity in package design. He called instead for enforcement of existing laws, on packaging which he said are adequate.

A trade authority, Morris C. Dubrow, said Monday that the paper and pulp industry could double its exports within five years.

No Sign of Survivors in Disaster Shortly After Takeoff From New Orleans

BY ROBERT ROWLAND
NEW ORLEANS (AP)—An Eastern Air Lines four-engine jetliner carrying 58 persons on a flight from Mexico City to New York disappeared minutes after takeoff from a New Orleans stop today and crashed in Lake Pontchartrain. There were no signs of survivors.

The Coast Guard said it recovered parts of a large aircraft, including seats, communication equipment and soundproofing.

Also recovered were clothing, luggage and what was described as parts of bodies.

The Coast Guard said one of its helicopter pilots over the wreckage area reported there were indications that the plane either exploded in the air or on impact. The debris was scattered over a wide area.

Near New Orleans
The spokesman said the site is about six miles south of the north shore of the lake, or some 20 miles north of New Orleans. It was about four miles east of the 27-mile long Lake Pontchartrain causeway connecting the north and south shores.

Eastern said there were 49 passengers aboard, including 32 who were making the through trip and 17 who boarded in New Orleans. Fourteen of the passengers were pass-riding Eastern employees.

Eastern said the plane carried 51 passengers and a crew of 7. At least 32 of the passengers aboard, including 32 who were making the through trip and 17 who boarded in New Orleans. Fourteen of the passengers were pass-riding Eastern employees.

TODAY'S INDEX

One Man, One Vote

The decision by the United States Supreme Court that congressional districts must be reapportioned to carry out the dictum of "one man, one vote" as fairly as possible has no immediate consequence in Wisconsin. Our state legislature accomplished a reapportionment at the last session which was accepted as fair by both political parties.

The same situation does not prevail in some other states, however. Texas congressional districts have been held unconstitutional by a federal court and the matter was under appeal. Presumably the high court decision negates an appeal, and Texas' 23 congressmen may have to run on a state-at-large basis this fall. A similar suit has been filed in Connecticut.

Johnson and Wisconsin History

One of the curious facts about current politics in the United States is the universal assumption, from the sophisticated circles on the Potomac to the most remote precincts of upper Wisconsin, that President Lyndon Johnson will become the nominee of the Democrats for the presidency by acclamation when the national party convention is held in August.

In Wisconsin, especially, this is a mildly puzzling thing, remembering that some of the leading prophets of liberalism within the Wisconsin party organization were holding their noses in lofty disdain about Senator Johnson as recently as four years ago when the late Mr. Kennedy decided it would be expedient to have him as a running-mate.

Gaylord Nelson, now one of the pillars of the Wisconsin party, launched his own senate campaign with a blistering and almost contemptuous attack upon Johnson when he was the majority leader of the senate in 1957. When Senator Proxmire went to Washington he won national attention—perhaps by design—with a public challenge of Johnson's philosophy, program, and method. At Los Angeles in 1960 some Wisconsin delegates publicly protested the nomination of the Texas leader for the vice presidency.

We are aware that agility and a capacity to accommodate to reality are among the essential skills of the politician. Thus we have no doubt that the Nelsons and Proxmires and even Governor Reynolds with his rather more advanced conceptions of the liberal philosophy, and the rest, are quite convinced that Mr. Johnson is their inevitable standard-bearer this year and that there is no one who is likely to be willing to challenge him even if they had any doubts about his worthiness.

Water Lesson From Green Bay

Operating revenues of the municipal water department in Green Bay exceeded $1 million for the first time in 1963. And after deducting operating expenses of $640,000 and paying $173,000 in interest on its bonds, the department wound up with a net income of $250,000.

In other words Green Bay's water department has become a highly profitable business. And this should be of more than passing interest to the city of Appleton as it contemplates investing in a new water supply.

The record-smashing income was attributed to a more than four million gallon increase in water consumption for the year. The total pumpage of 3.87 billion

But there are some long-range consequences which may be important to Wisconsin. The decision further strengthens the recent trend in which the judiciary assumes the power to reapportion if legislative bodies do not carry out their responsibilities in the matter.

There is gross inequity in the apportionment of county board seats in Wisconsin. The state system does not even bear any relationship to the principle of one-man, one-vote.

If the Wisconsin legislature does not recognize its responsibility to apportion county boards on a population basis it is highly conceivable that the courts might take cognizance of the situation.

Yet there were times when Wisconsin Democrats were somewhat more independent, or adventurous. The Truman position in 1948 was roughly analogous to the Johnson role today. Mr. Truman had succeeded through the death of the elected president, Mr. Roosevelt. There was no real doubt of his nomination for a succeeding full term. Yet there was a stout resistance to the idea among Wisconsin Democrats, who at one time had to adjourn a state convention in a desperate effort to avoid a repudiation of the Truman candidacy. There was fond talk about the availability of Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, among others.

There was a footnote to that incident that echoes in contemporary Wisconsin affairs. Robert Tehan then was "Mr. Democrat" in Wisconsin. After Mr. Truman's election to a full term in his own right, Mr. Tehan became a candidate for appointment to the federal district judgeship at Milwaukee. Mr. Truman's reservations about Candidate Tehan's loyalty were shown by his tardy acceptance of his credentials, as older Wisconsin Democrats will recall.

We may guess that if the White House at that time could have found a qualified Democrat of unquestioned loyalty to the man from Missouri, Judge Tehan might not now be presiding in his Milwaukee court, 16 years later. Last year Mr. Kennedy faced a similar decision. He passed over a highly qualified Democratic candidate who was cool to his own presidential candidacy, and chose David Rabinovitz, whose eligibility for the federal district court for the western district at Madison continues to be debated with intensity throughout Wisconsin and may yet be a mild cause of embarrassment to the Democrats in this new election year.

It is obvious that fine quality water available in large quantities is a highly salable product today. When fine water is available in more or less unlimited quantities individuals and businesses greatly increase their consumption. And the water business is no different than any other in that higher volume reduces unit cost and produces a greater net return.

Which means that Appleton in its future projections must figure not only community growth in terms of residential and business customers, but also that, given fine quality water, per capita consumption may be expected to increase. This is by no means a problem since increased volume will also mean lower unit costs.

Court Decision, Population Forecasts Mean New Congress

BY MAX FREEDMAN

At present we have no way of measuring the political results of the Supreme Court's decision that congressional districts must be roughly equal in population. We are still in the realm of conjecture and forecast.

Freedman

The confident predictions by Republicans and Democrats are not always supported by their more candid statements in private.

Fortunately we have an impartial and reliable guide in forecasting the long-term changes in our population.

Mr. Richard Scammon, head of the Census Bureau, has projected the trend in population for 1980. His results have been incorporated in a recent address by Senator Hubert Humphrey delivered before the Supreme Court's decision.

Senator Humphrey quoted the Census Bureau's forecast that our population by 1980 will be in excess of 260,000,000. The bulk of the population will be in the cities. There will, for example, be more than eighty million people living in a giant urban chain along the Atlantic Seaboard from Boston to Washington. Another chain of cities will run along the rim of the Great Lakes from Buffalo to Chicago. In Florida and elsewhere along the Gulf Coast the clusters of population will intensify and thicken. A few inland webs will develop around Minneapolis-St. Paul, Denver, Salt Lake City, and Phoenix. And there will be a massive movement of population to the West.

Using the findings of the Census Bureau, Senator Humphrey described the effect of these changes on Congress.

In 1980 cities will be under-represented in the Senate but they will dominate the membership of the House. The major changes in the House will consist of a shift of power to the great city areas; a shift of power clearly westward beyond the Mountain States and to the West Coast; the Middle West barely holding its own;

the states of the Old South, the Border States, New England, and the large Middle Atlantic States all losing representation.

The Old South will lose 10 per cent or more of its House seats. New England will forfeit more than 15 per cent of its seats. Texas and Florida will add 15 per cent to their present representation. The Pacific Coast will gain more than 10 seats and register an increase of almost 20 per cent in the House.

Virtually every new seat in Congress will represent a large city.

By the time today's youngsters are able to vote, the House of Representatives will be a body measurably more western in composition and more urban in its interests. Most Americans will have no contact with rural America—a result which would have alarmed Jefferson and other prophets of American destiny.

Senator Humphrey asked a series of probing questions based on these statistics.

What will this mean to Congress in such matters, for example, as planning, a word that is still considered almost un-American? What will happen in city planning, not just conventional city planning but vast regional and area planning? He said it is almost impossible today to get Congress to say anything about open spaces in its legislation for urban renewal or urban housing in view of the present mental and social attitudes of our legislators. And yet, where are people going to live—on strips of concrete?

Senator Humphrey then discussed transportation. He said it does not matter how many ribbons of highways are built; with the population projection that faces us it is impossible under present engineering studies to move people from their homes to their jobs. The massive waste of time, money, of energy caused by faulty transportation makes the federal deficit fade into insignificance.

What about our agricultural patterns? We can produce all the food and fiber that this nation needs in the foreseeable future with one half of the people that we presently have on the farms. Our farms today are spewing out their population to the cities.

What about the dispersal of industry? What happens in mid-America? What about financing and credit for those vast areas of America where population seems to be drifting away? They will have little or no representation in the House of Representatives. Who will speak for them?

Senator Humphrey warned that we will be faced with a backwash of areas of chronic unemployment because people cannot always pick up and leave just because an expert's blueprint says they should. Many things hold people to communities when there is no economic base—loved ones, age, sentiment, or just an inability to liquidate and get out. He emphasized that increased efficiency of workers, wholesale changes in raw material production, the technological revolution in agricultural methods are releasing millions of people to our cities and frequently to unemployment.

The Supreme Court of course did not have to take these political and economic facts into account in reaching its decision on congressional representation. But the rest of us do, and we are by no means at the end of our troubles.

Democratic Split Is Battle of Personalities, Growing More Bitter

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — Because about half of the voters of Wisconsin have chosen the Democratic ticket in recent elections, the division in the Democratic Party organization has become one of the important local political developments of the season.

But the nature of the quarrel that has occupied the attention of the principal party politicians for the last six weeks to the exclusion of most other matters remains obscure, at least with respect to the dispatches covering the developments at the recent party caucuses.

Why should the party commanders, on the eve of a probably critical struggle with the Republican organization which promises a unified attack for the first time in half a decade, risk a dangerous internal fight? Questions of philosophy and program are obviously not involved. There is no real quarrel about principal office nominations. Gov. Reynolds and Sen. Proxmire, for example, are as sure of nominations for new terms as are the uncontested Republican candidates for nominations to their offices, Warren Knowles and Wilbur Rank. There is a fair chance that the lesser ticket places will be arranged without significant fights. It must appear to be a dense mystery, indeed, to the rank and file dues payer in the ranks, doing his bit for the party in Wood-smoke, Wis.

THE CLUE

In most publicity the schism has been described as representing the rivalries of Gov. Reynolds and National Committeeman Patrick J. Lucey, on the one hand, and Sen. Gaylord Nelson and Party Chairman Louis Hanson, on the other.

Because they are the principal spokesmen of the party (with Sen. Proxmire who appears willing enough to stay out of the row today, after a tentative gesture on the side of Reynolds and Lucey a month ago) this is perhaps a suitable way to describe what is going on. But like most convenient tags, it falls short of the full explanation.

The quarrel is actually between Nelson and Lucey. Reynolds and Hanson inherited their positions and their consequent troubles. To a considerable degree Hanson is chairman because Nelson backed him a year ago. To a considerable degree Reynolds holds the state's highest office today because Lucey was one of his key original supporters, giving encouragement when the outlook was doubtful. Reynolds regards Lucey as his best friend in politics. Like the realist he is, he doesn't propose to abandon him now. Hansen must regard Nelson as his principal sponsor and apparently is willing to deliver also.

BUT WHY?

The Nelson-Lucey quarrel has been continuing for several years, without a cause that makes any sense to outsiders or even those party men one step removed from the top command. The fact that it should be continued now, when the organization will need its best effort to win another election, plainly indicates that it is a mortal one.

The struggle for dominance, to determine who will occupy the rank and hold the prestige of the late Robert M. LaFollette Sr., whose spiritual descendant most of these men claim to be, is plain enough. But the question remains why these mature, pragmatic men, aware that the winner of the struggle may inherit a defeated and broken machine if the fight continues, should persist in their cannibalistic purposes now.

Whatever the basis of the deep animus between Nelson and Lucey, recent developments have made it evident that peace will be extremely difficult to attain.

After Hanson's repeated and bitter denunciations, the party cannot avoid the conclusion that he is speaking for his mentor. Having said what he has said, Hanson probably cannot now with any grace fail to fight to a conclusion with an attempt to unseat Lucey as top party officer at the party state convention this summer.

Mentation Is Process We Need to Use More

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

People are peculiar about the use of words. A reader in Canada has objected because I recently used the word "mentation" in a column, and he was unable to find it in his abridged dictionary.

Harris

"Mentation" means "total mental activity," or the whole process involved in thinking. It states in one word what would otherwise take three or four; it is concise, specific, and objective.

There are two reasons for using long, difficult or obscure words. One reason is that they offer a kind of shorthand; they say in brief what it would take a whole sentence to say in any other way. We should learn more of these words, and use them more often.

The second reason is exactly the opposite. A long or obscure word is used to conceal the true meaning of something, to disguise fuzzy thinking or special pleading, or to display intellectual superiority. We should avoid all such words like the plague.

But the average person cannot and will not distinguish between the two, and resents any use of a strange word for whatever purpose. He thinks the writer is putting on airs, or engaging in double-talk. He demands "simplicity" in whatever he reads.

Seymour Mayor, Alderman, To Get Salary Increases

Executive's Pay Boosted to $500 Yearly; Starts Next Term

SEYMOUR—Salary increases for the mayor, aldermen and clerk were voted at Monday night's council session in an effort to bring wages in line with communities of similar size in the state.

Salary of the mayor was increased from $420 to $500 annually, aldermen from $300 to $400. The $10 fee for the mayor, aldermen and clerk for special meetings was increased to $12.50. Increases will go into effect when the new mayor and council are installed after the spring election.

The increase for aldermen affects only the two incumbents who are unopposed in bids for re-election. The new law allows raises to be voted for city officials in office. The remaining aldermanic salaries will be increased when those running for office are re-elected.

Fire Inspector
A greatly increased work load for the city fire inspector caused the council to vote an increase for that office from $100 annually to $240. All other salaries were continued at the same level.

Mayor Ben Tryman reappointed City Assessor Norman Haefs to a third term effective March 1. The council authorized March 1. The council authorized March 1. The council authorized March 1.

Bids will be advertised for curb, gutter, sidewalk and aggregate during March for the 1964 program. Bids will be opened Monday March 30. Most city police department work will be done on again voted at $10 annually.

Oral Polio Vaccine Coming Via Plane

10 Outagamie County Clinics Planned for March 8, April 19

The equivalent to 100,000 doses of oral Sabin (polio) vaccine will wing its way to Appleton, arriving at Outagamie County Airport Thursday.

Outagamie County Medical Society officials said today the vaccine, purchased by the society, will be shipped here via North Central or private flight from New Jersey.

The vaccine will be administered to Outagamie County residents at 10 clinics to be held throughout the county on Sunday, March 8. It will immunize them against polio.

Men, women and children of all ages, the latter at least two months old, will be eligible to receive the oral dose of vaccine.

Biggest Shipment
The shipment of the Sabin vaccine will be the biggest in the Fox Valley region to date.

In another development, Dr. Carl N. Neupert, Madison, state health officer, sent a letter to local health officials advising them the program of administering oral vaccine on Sundays, March 8 and April 19 is in keeping with recommendations of the State Board of Health advisory board.

The administration of type II and III vaccine has the great advantage that a third clinic will not be necessary. Dr. Neupert said.

Participation Experience
"We know from experience in other parts of the state and in the country that participation in the second clinic is not as good as in the first one, and participation in a third clinic is poorest," Dr. Neupert said.

It is the main reason why Outagamie Medical Society decided on having just two clinics, spaced weeks apart.

"The chances of complete coverage of your population will be increased by using two clinics only," Dr. Neupert said.

He said combined use of types II and III vaccine is less expensive than the use of trivalent vaccine.

Man Injured in Car-Truck Crash

CLINTONVILLE — John F. Drier, 71, 101 Waupaca St., Clintonville, received cuts, bruises and a possible back injury when his car and a truck collided at 2 p.m. Saturday in the intersection of Eighth and Hemlock Streets.

He was confined at the Clintonville Community hospital.

The truck was driven by Roger K. Wright, 23, Cherreville, Ind. Both vehicles were going west and Drier's car was struck as he was going to make a left turn onto Hemlock Street, according to the Clintonville police.

Damages were estimated at $200 to the car and only the bumper was damaged on the truck.

May Increase Clinic Board

County Resolution Would Set Total Directors at 15

There will be as many as 15 directors of the Outagamie County Community Guidance Center to include three mandatory county employees if a resolution drafted by the executive committee Monday is approved by supervisors in March.

The committee Monday agreed to change the clinic's by-laws to ask for as many as 15 directors and to ask the office of corporate counsel, welfare director and business administrator to be included as mandatory appointments.

The remaining directors would be selected from school officials, law enforcement, business, clergy, medical or law professions. Board Chairman Alvin Fulcer also said a county board supervisor will be asked to serve as a director.

Two-Year Review
The agreement between the clinic and the county will be reviewed after two years. A previous agreement had no termination date, Fulcer said.

The change in the by-laws was brought about when Supt. of Schools Henry Van Stratten resigned from the board and County School Nurse Mrs. Marion Freemore expressed a desire to quit. Both served on the board by virtue of their positions with the county.

2 Men Appear On Waupaca Weapon Count

WAUPACA — Two Milwaukee men appeared before Municipal Justice George Whalen Monday morning on charges of reckless use of firearms.

William Fonda, 30, denied the charge and was ordered held in county jail until he could pay a $250 bond. Fonda pleaded guilty to a charge of disorderly conduct and was fined $100 or 30 days in jail. His trial on reckless use of firearms was set for March 2 in Municipal Court.

Dennis Arnoldi, 24, pleaded guilty to the reckless use of firearms charge and was fined $200 and costs or 60 days in jail.

The incident which led to the arrest of the two men occurred at Radtke's Recreation, Weyauwega, Friday night. Arnoldi was handling a loaded 22 caliber revolver. When police were called Arnoldi gave the gun to Fonda who threw it into a wash tank behind the bar, police said.

In Courthouse Lot Inmate Left No Trace — Except Parked Car

A Waupun State Prison inmate who apparently has served his term in Waupun and has left no traces of his whereabouts, is being sought by Outagamie County authorities who are anxious to return the man's car.

The 1950 model car has been locked and parked in a stall on the courthouse's employee parking lot since April, 1961 when the man was sentenced.

Several efforts to find the man so he could redeem the car have been fruitless. Prison records do not include a forwarding address. The man's family in Colorado was contacted, but they did not answer the county's letter.

Takes Up Space
The car was brought to the attention of Alvin Woehler, county business administrator, by employees who complained the car was occupying space which could be used by a courthouse employee.

Woehler said Monday he has asked the sheriff's department to move the car. Sheriff Calvin Spice said the car is to be taken to the Outagamie County highway garage for storage.

Woehler said the county will make one more effort by certified mail to find the owner. If the owner does not pick up the car or answer the letter, the car will be disposed of.

Space Problem
Removal of the one car will, however, not solve the county's growing parking problem in the courthouse area.

Woehler said the public property and insurance committee is studying a proposed policy which would forbid unauthorized cars from parking in the lot.

Tickets would be placed on the car windshields telling the owner the parking lot is private and the car will be removed at the owner's expense.

Construction of sewage facilities on the streets surrounding the courthouse has compounded the problem. Woehler said most

State Department Okays School Plan At New London

All Facets of Program Outlined To Electors at Public Meeting

NEW LONDON — The building program being proposed by the New London School District board members stated that according to statutes 125 square feet of space should be allotted for each student and the 100,000 of Public Instruction and the local school superintendent.

Questions of state and local sanction dominated a public informational meeting Monday night.

Lloyd Qualley, superintendent of schools, replied that the proposed plan is functional, and he approved of it.

Gordon Reidenbach, school board president, told the group he had been given permission to quote a State Department of Public Instruction official stating the department fully supported the board of education and the survey committee in the project.

Question Costs
Survey costs were questioned. Reidenbach said the board of education has not received a bill for the services of the three-man survey team. Making the survey and recommendations were Henry Miles Jr., an architect, Walter Schoenrock and William Stern, contractors.

The forum opened with an explanation why the board chose this particular building program. Reidenbach told them the board and committee felt the program was educationally and economically sound.

He said two referendums had already been defeated, one for $2.9 million and one for $1.9 million. Reasons behind their failure, he said, were the cost factor and the belief by some that the present high school could be enlarged.

Riedebach also discussed some of the other building plans presented by the committee and explained this particular plan was chosen because it seemed the most educationally and financially sound plan. He also said the three-year high school plan is not new to this district stating the board of education in 1959 presented a 10-year building program to the city council which included a three year senior high school.

Another question was if 100,000 square feet of space was

Urged to Vote
Electors were urged to vote Thursday. The two questions are $1.4 million for the construction of a new three-year senior high school or $465,000 for elementary school construction and remodeling.

Gresham Man To be Named Shawano Judge

Kenneth Traeger Is Gov. Reynolds Choice for Post

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — Gov. John Reynolds said Monday he will appoint Kenneth Traeger, veteran Gresham lawyer and Shawano County Democratic leader as Shawano County judge to succeed Robert Fischer, Shawano, who died recently.

The appointment will probably be made late today.

Traeger, 61, has been Gresham village president for the last 10 years. In political circles he is widely known as a long-time leader of the Shawano County Democratic organization. He was nominated for Seventh District congressman three times against Rep. Melvin Laird, in 1954, 1958 and 1960.

He is a director of Gresham State Bank, and a graduate of St. Norbert College and the Marquette University law school.

One of his brothers is Dodge County judge, and another, the Rev. Adrian, is pastor of a Catholic parish at Oneida and a teacher at Fremont High School, Green Bay.

Registration will be from 1 to 2 p.m.

Adults will be responsible for each patrol getting to the snow derby and will assist in head-Rev. Adrian, is pastor of a quarters during the derby. No assistance to competing patrols will be allowed.

Reynolds Not Giving Up on Land Issue

Says Rivals Using Purchase of Island As Surrender Bait

MADISON — Gov. Reynolds says state purchase of Rock Island off the tip of Door County is being held out to him by some legislative rivals as "bait or a bribe" for his surrender on the issue of operating the state recreational lands program.

The governor told reporters he has no intention of surrendering to Republican legislative leaders who want to get rid of the administering state recreation committee, and to turn over the land buying and leasing program wholly to the State Conservation Commission.

The stalemate will be before the legislature again when it convenes in April Reynolds' reference to Rock Island shows his understanding that the island State purchase project and others suggested for the next two years end down to pick up an axe off may be sidetracked or defeated the floor of the car. # Appleton Gallery of Arts Exhibit Predicts Good Fox Cities Shows

BY JAY JOSLYN
Post-Crescent Sunday Editor

Fourth annual mid-winter exhibition of the Appleton Gallery of Arts augurs well for the art life of the Fox Cities. The show's locale on the sixth floor of the H. C. Prange Co. is drawing the largest crowds any art show here ever has drawn.

The display opened Monday and will run through Saturday during store hours. The exhibit has works by art students from 10 area high schools as well as the members of the Appleton Gallery of Arts.

Because of the addition of the great number of high school works of commendable merit it is apparent the current renaissance of interest in art here will be fed for some time to come.

All types of art media are exhibited by the youngsters, pointing to the high caliber and wide scope of the art curriculum in area high schools. Many of the pieces compare quite favorably with the works of the AGA members.

The show is divided into two lofty rooms. Although there is an excess of 350 pieces on display, with few exceptions resting high on the main room's wainscoting, each is given complimentary lighting and accessibility.

AGA Offerings

The main room is occupied by offerings of the AGA members.

As in each of the club's major semi-annual exhibits, this show demonstrates the remarkable growth of the artists in the AGA as different techniques and media are employed or superior understanding is revealed. Although there is some, the display has much less of the "art appreciator's" attempt at participation through borderline crafts.

The range of interpretations by AGA members is wide, touching all of the current forces in the art world with the exception of blatant "pop" art.

Perhaps the piece provoking the greatest comment is a large oil, "Genesis", by Gary Fustfeld. It is a white canvas carrying a large black form and a spot. The artist says the painting is representative of Genesis 1:4, "And God divided the light from the darkness."

It is the first of a series of canvases, he said, depicting the acts of creation Fustfeld also represented by a decorative oil on linen and a collage.

Experimentation Shown

Experimentation in different media is strikingly pointed up by woodcarver Harvey Jorgenson's concrete and aluminum sculpturing and master watercolorist Dimitrios Zografos' impressionistic oils.

The AGA has works of members on display and all permit examination, but members, in addition to those mentioned, stand out. In the opinion of this viewer, they are:

Seymour Man Fined, Jailed On Tax Count

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Fines and sentences in the Milwaukee County House of Correction were ordered Monday for two cheesemakers who pleaded guilty to charges of federal income tax evasion.

Frank J. Radeske, 38, of Seymour and Paulus W. Winter, 48, of Pulaski appeared before Federal Judge Robert E. Tehan.

A fine of $2,500 and 45 days in jail were ordered for Radeske, who is charged with reporting $3,711 in income and paying a tax of $311 in 1958 when his income was $20,797 and subject to a tax of $4,598.

Winter, operator of the Elm Lawn cheese factory in Seymour, was fined $500 and given a 30-day term. He was accused of reporting income of $4,193 and paying a tax of $841 in 1958 when he should have reported $9666 and paid $2,113.

Slight Decrease in TB Sanatorium Care Noted By Welfare Department

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — What has been described by the State Department of Health as a "small but significant trend" toward less sanatorium care and more outpatient care for tuberculosis patients is shown in the experience of the tuberculosis hospitals in Wisconsin counties for the last year.

Outpatient visits during the year rose by more than 7 per cent, while in-patient care declined by just under four per cent, it was shown. The 14 county and two private sanatoria provided 33,641 patient weeks of care and handled 34,641 outpatient visits at a cost of $4,486,000, the board said.

Damages Exceed $100 In Two-Car Collision

NEW LONDON — Damages of more than $100 resulted from a two-car collision at the intersection of Division and Evergreen streets at 10:25 p.m. Sunday.

Jill Poepeke, 16, 322 Evergreen St., was traveling west on Evergreen when her car skidded at the intersection and collided sideways with a car driven by Donald Muiro, 38, route 1 who was traveling north on Division

Three Hurt in Sherwood Crash

CHILTON — A two-car accident at 10:15 p.m. Sunday in Sherwood resulted in three injuries and damages estimated at more than $100.

A car driven by John H. Rohm, 21, 918 W. Parkway Blvd., Appleton, collided with the rear of an auto driven by Delmar Gerhartz, 40, Stockbridge, on State 55 and 114 in Sherwood.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerhartz complained of back and neck injuries and Beverly Boyle, 18, 1337 E. Northland Ave., Appleton, a passenger in the Rohm car, complained of head injuries. None of the injured were hospitalized.

Rohm told county police his car skidded into the Gerhartz vehicle when he applied his brakes. Both autos were headed north when the mishap occurred.

Fourth Pleads Innocent

Three Found Guilty of Tippy Driving Charges

Three Fox Valley area motorists were found guilty of operating motor vehicles while under the influence of intoxicants and had their drivers' licenses revoked for one year.

—Glen S. Wolosek, 27, 413½ N. Bennett St., Appleton, pleaded guilty Monday in Outagamie County Court, Branch 2, and was fined $175 and costs.

—Luther K. Volz, 52, route 1, New London, was found guilty today by a circuit court jury and fined $209 and costs.

A fourth man, Duane R. Winters, 33, 1819 E. Newberry St., Appleton, pleaded innocent of a similar charge Monday in the Outagamie court branch. No trial date has been set. He was arrested early Sunday by Appleton police on N. Richmond Street.

Wolosek was arrested by Appleton police Saturday after his auto hit a hole on N. Meade Street, and he lost control of the vehicle. The car skidded and hit a mail box and a utility pole before stopping on a front lawn at 3036 N. Meade St., police said.

Volz was arrested March 3, 1963, by state police on U. S. 45 south of New London. He tested .23 on the breathalyzer. A reading of .15 is considered evidence of intoxication.

Probation, Parole May be Decided by Statistical Check

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Will an offender's prospects on probation or parole ultimately be subject to statistical analysis?

The State Department of Public Welfare has begun a research project based on the possibility.

Hits Proposed Recreation Setup Change

Any Measure to Alter Program

MADISON (AP) — Gov. John W. Reynolds expressed disappointment Monday over a legislative committee proposal to change the Wisconsin outdoor recreation program.

The Democratic chief executive told his weekly news conference that the committee's recommendation would seriously weaken the program and added he would veto any bill designed to change the setup.

The committee, controlled by Republicans, went on record last week to abolish the agency which directs development of the program. The agency—the State Recreation Committee—is made up of representatives of the conservation, highway, public welfare and resource development departments, and the state soil and water conservation committee.

Priorities Setup Hit
The legislative committee also voiced criticism of the method of setting up priorities of projects under the outdoor act, which is a 10-year program financed by a cent a pack tax on cigarettes.

The committee said it favored giving the Conservation Commission complete control of the program.

Sitting with the governor for his conference was Philileo Nash, commissioner of Indian Affairs and former lieutenant-governor of Wisconsin. Nash presented the governor a check for $132,000 for education needs in Menominee County, the former Indian reservation.

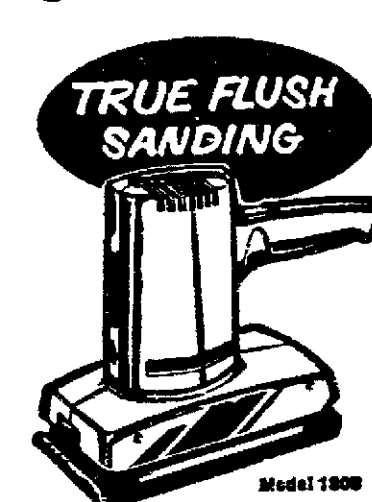

Nash said his department would continue to seek to solve the new county's problems "within limitations" of congressional action which terminated U.S. ties with the former reservation.

Emergency Resources Asked for Wisconsin

MADISON (AP)—The federal government was asked by Gov. John W. Reynolds to include Wisconsin in an emergency resources management program designed for use in event of nuclear attack.

The governor's proposal included a budget request of $46,222 in federal funds to finance Wisconsin's participation. Plans are being made to provide food, clothing and shelter for survivors of a nuclear attack.

Our Charlie Interviews Roaming Ohioan Who Really Enjoys His Job

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

A tall lanky fellow with an irascible grey haircut and soft brown eyes pulled into Green Bay recently with the singular point of view that he has the best job in the world. He is shortly to appear in Appleton where he will presume the same thing.

He is Colonel (Kentucky variety) Ray Weaver, an outdoor man and an outdoor writer whose present busy-ness is the purveying of an electronic device which contains siren calls for critters and predators. The device is named "The Call of the Wild" and apparently it can. Weaver, by whatever means, lures hunters into the woods and fields. He instructs them in the arts of being wily and silent. Then he turns on the device and awaits the coming of the animals.

Do they come? Well, in one hunt, according to Weaver, the call lured in 106 foxes. The hunters took 64 shots, killed two. Another time a fox was lured to the device and ran right up a hunter's back, like a zipper.

Everybody Missed

At Green Bay, one group of huntersmen was at the ready when 16 foxes were "called in." The group shot at nine of them. None was killed.

Another Green Bay group drew in nine foxes, shot at five of them, missed 'em all.

The electronic device is, in effect, a record player. The siren songs which lure in the predators are various ones, but the most popular here is one which plays the voice of a screaming rabbit. Not many people have heard a rabbit scream, but they do scream. The scream is amplified many times and can be heard up to five miles away.

Col. Weaver deduces that this is what happens:

The voice of the screaming rabbit is heard over the land. Every fox — and often other predators — within earshot get the message. The message is that something somewhere has captured a rabbit and is about to dine upon it.

Hurry to Scene

But predators, being predators, conclude that whatever may have captured the rabbit might possibly be fair game, too. Hence they hurry to the scene to see if they can whip the critter with the rabbit, take it away and have it for themselves.

It is at this time that the hunters shoot. And it is at this time, too, that most of the hunters miss.

Why so few kills? For one thing, the hunts are usually at night. Hunters wear headlamps which Weaver provides. But too many hunters are yarn-swappers: they like to chatter away when they should be stone silent. Sometimes, too, the human scent is not adequately hidden. (Weaver recommends pure gum spirits of turpentine

Literary Work Needed for KHS Publication

KAUKAUNA — Material is still needed for the 1964 publication of "Pegasus," literary magazine at Kaukauna High School, according to Bernard Hupperts, instructor and adviser for the publication.

Students have until March 1 to submit any type of original creative literature. This includes short stories, essays, poetry, book reviews and short plays.

Articles will be judged by five faculty members and five students with publication of the book planned about April 1. Serving as judges besides the adviser are instructors Joseph Vander Zanden, Jack Peters, Mrs. Patrick Netzel and Mrs. Kenneth Roloff. Student judges are Gregg Dery, Patrick Simon, Ricky Vander Velden, Anne Grogan and Janet Driessen.

Widow of Wisconsin Teacher Who Founded Flag Day Dead at 92

AURORA, Ill. (AP) — Mrs. Alice N. Cigrand, 92, widow of the founder of the Flag Day, was buried in Riverside Cemetery Monday.

Her husband, B.J. Cigrand, who died May 16, 1932 in Batavia, Ill., held the first official Flag Day at a little country school house in Waubeka, Wis., June 14, 1885.

Mrs. Cigrand died Friday in Pico Rivera, Calif. Officially, Flag Day was first observed in 1877 to celebrate the selection of the American Flag. All public buildings were requested by Congress to display the flag.

But some people suggest Flag Day be observed every year. It was Cigrand, a school teacher in Waubeka, who began a lifetime fight to establish the cause of the proximity of the Flag Day as an annual national observance.

His aim was realized many years later when President Woodrow Wilson proclaimed Flag Day an annual national celebration on May 30, 1916.

Army Medical Teams Preparing to Meet Any Nuclear Incident

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army is creating special medical teams for emergency service in the event of a nuclear accident or incident within the United States.

There will be four such radiological emergency medical teams," it was disclosed. Each will be headed by an Army Medical Corps officer and will include three other specialists "qualified in the management of nuclear casualties" and evaluation of radiation hazards.

The plan is designed to handle nuclear accidents and to respond to disaster situations should they arise," the Army said.

Creation of the teams was disclosed in a regulation signed by Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, Army chief of staff.

One Waupaca Skater Places At Superior

Karen Jenkins Gets Club's Only Points In Championship

WAUPACA — Karen Jenkins, one of seven members from the Waupaca Skating Club to participate in the Superior Open Speed Skating Championships Sunday, placed fourth in the three-quarter mile race and received one point. Karen also reached the finals in the 220 and 440 yard races.

The races attracted over 300 skaters from Minnesota and Wisconsin. Waupaca skaters were Karen Jenkins, intermediate girls; Arlys Jenkins, juvenile girls; Kent Romeis, juvenile boys, and Mark Romeis, midget boys. Appleton skaters who are members of the Waupaca club and participated were Al Gosha and John Francek, senior men, and Steve Kagen, junior boys.

Steve Kagen placed in the 220-yard heats in the junior boys events and reached the finals of the 880-yard race. Mark Romeis placed in the 220 yards and one-sixth mile heats. He also reached the semi-finals in the one-sixth mile event. Gosha and Francek both were in the one mile race finals in the senior mens division. Kent Romeis and Arlys Jenkins both reached the finals in the 880-yard events in their classes.

Eau Claire Meet
Saturday the Waupaca club will send a delegation to the Eau Claire invitational which will have skaters from two Eau Claire clubs, Superior and Waupaca. One of the two new Eau Claire clubs is coached by Mary Novak Sand, a former Waupaca club skater.

Practice sessions for the Eau Claire meet will be Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Because of the poor ice conditions skaters are now running two miles a day to keep in condition, Mrs. Floyd Jenkins said.

At the Superior meet the skaters were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins. Mrs. Jenkins aided with registrations and Jenkins was the finish judge.

Wheat Deal Blamed for Cuban Trade Problems

Laird Criticism

BY FRANCES McKUSICK
Post-Crescent Washington Bureau
WASHINGTON — The failure of the United States to persuade non-communist countries to invoke an economic blockade against Cuba can be at least partially blamed on our own wheat deal with Russia, Rep. Melvin R. Laird, R-Marshfield, charged today.

"We have been completely inconsistent in our demands on the sale of our surplus wheat to Russia," the congressman charged. "I have always opposed any sale of wheat to Russia under any circumstances, and my opposition has been strengthened with every new development involving the sale."

"First, the Administration won over a certain segment of the population by saying the sale would be on a gold - payment basis only," continued the congressman. "This condition of sale was later relaxed when it was decided that the Russians could buy on credit, with the American taxpayers picking up the tab if the Russians defaulted on the import - export bank loan.

American Ships
"Secondly, the Administration won over another segment of the population by saying the wheat would be shipped on American ships and would provide additional jobs for American seamen," the congressman recalled. "We all know now that the Administration also reneged on that present plan, if executed, will place more than 50 per cent of the wheat on foreign ship bottoms."

Pointing out that "We haven't followed through on one single original condition of sale in the wheat deal," Laird said that our sale of wheat to communist Russia in effect encouraged free nations throughout the world to negotiate trade agreements with Cuba and other iron - curtain countries.

"We just can't sell to the most powerful communist country in the world and then turn around and tell other nations to invoke economic boycotts against Cuba and other Russian satellites," he concluded. "It just doesn't make sense."

Stolen Car in Seymour Crash

15-Year-Old Youth Turned Over to Appleton Police

SEYMOUR — A car which had been reported stolen from Appleton Monday morning, hit another car, lurched out of control and hit a building on Main Street Monday while it was being pursued by Seymour police.

A 15-year-old Appleton youth who was driving the car has been turned over to Appleton police. Seymour Police Chief Bernard Plumb said he will confer with Appleton authorities to determine if charges resulting from the chase should be brought against the youth.

The car was seen by Asst. Chief Harland Thomson who was patrolling on Main Street. Area police had been alerted to the stolen car report from Appleton earlier in the day. The car is owned by Donald J. Smith, 1715 Hazel Kolbske home at 5:20 p.m. Morrison St., Appleton.

Gave Chase
Thomson pursued the car with his siren and red light. The youth's car passed another car, hit the rear tail light, then skidded out of control.

The car careened off the street and crashed into the Hittner Clinic Building, nearly hitting Thomas Landwehr Jr., who had just entered the building.

The youth locked the doors of the car after the crash, but opened them when Thomson ordered him out of the car.

Damage to the autos was estimated at $1,500.

der with malice and faces a possible sentence of execution in the electric chair. Oswald, a self-styled Marxist, had been accused of assassinating President Kennedy in Dallas Nov. 22. The trial is in the second week of jury-picking. Two men and a woman have been accepted as jurors out of 61 examined. The third was an attractive, dark-haired mother of six children, Mildred McCollum, selected Monday. She is a secretary and her husband is a machinist. Since some of her children are under 16 years old, she could have claimed exemption from jury duty. During questioning by defense lawyers, Mrs. McCollum, 40, said she knew this. She was not asked why she chose not to claim the privilege. Dist. Judge Joe B. Brown ruled last week that persons who saw the televised shooting of Oswald are eligible to sit on the jury. He also balked defense efforts to subpoena as witnesses persons who said they saw the scene. The nine-member Texas Supreme Court voted unanimously Monday against reviewing Brown's decision. This left it standing.

SINGER SAYS HE KNEW ABOUT KIDNAPING

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A rock'n' roll singer has electrified a federal courtroom by testifying he knew about the Frank Sinatra Jr. kidnap scheme a bout two months before it was carried out. Earlier Monday Dean Torrence, 23, denied knowledge of the plot — and thereby, the judge said, committed perjury. In his later version Torrence said defendant Barry Keenan told him of the plan in October, and three days after the alleged abduction, gave him about $25,000. But, he said, he gave it back. He said he had lent him money "so he could eat," adding that Keenan owed him $1,200. He denied the money was to finance a kidnapping and that he knew of any such plan. He was excused as a witness. Changes Story In the afternoon Asst. U.S. Atty. Thomas R. Sheridan recalled him and Torrence said: "I'm afraid I made up some stories. I did know about the so-called kidnapping and I did get some money and I have it back." U.S. Dist. Judge William G. East said Torrence had committed perjury and that "the matter, of course, will have to be dealt with."

Overtime Law Seen as Forcing Price Increase

A—You mean in the battalion-size team?

Q—Yes. What significance do you see in this? Doesn't this mean that their capabilities have increased in arms and men as well as perhaps their confidence?

A—I think that size of the attack is part of the concept on which the Viet Cong and Ho Chi-minh, and men of the other Communist forces, have operated for years.

Developed Attacks In other words, they start off with small group attacks. Then, as the situation develops in what they think is their favor, they increase the size of the attacking groups and the force of the attack.

I think that this doctrine is behind the battalion-size attack, rather than an improvement in the weapons situation, although I am sure they are getting new weapons.

Q—Since you were out there a pattern appears to have developed, with Viet Cong Communist terrorist attacks aimed directly at the Americans for the first time. How do you see the significance of this? Do you think it is a concerted campaign? And, if so, what could be their motive?

A—I could only hazard a guess that perhaps the Viet Cong feel that bringing this sort of attack home to the Americans who are stationed in Saigon may be a means of harassing and discouraging them.

52,000 Sorties

Q—The role of the U.S. Marines in South Viet Nam has not been highlighted quite as much, as the Army Special Forces. What can you say about this?

A—Well, we're doing a very definite job in South Viet Nam. For the past two years we've had a reinforced helicopter squadron up in the more mountainous areas. They've flown approximately 52,000 sorties for a total of some 32,000 flight hours. In the execution of this mission they have lifted over 8.5 million pounds of cargo and approximately 200,000 passengers, the bulk of whom were combat troops. This gives you some idea of the job they have been doing.

Q—Speaking of helicopters, reports out of there seem to indicate the choppers are quite vulnerable even to the rather crude weapons that the Viet Cong use. What was your impression?

A—Well, my impression is that when you compare the number of flights that have been executed by helicopters, both Army and Marine, and the number of combat missions that have been flown, with the number of helicopters that have been brought down by enemy fire, the number is extremely small—surprisingly so, in view of the comparatively slow speed of the helicopter.

gers were making the through trip and at least 17 boarded in New Orleans. Fourteen were pass-riding Eastern employees. Marshy Shoreline

A veteran Eastern pilot said the jet probably reached a height of some 18,000 feet shortly after it got over the lake. Lake Pontchartrain is some 30 miles in diameter, with its southern shore along one side of New Orleans. Marshy land surrounds much of the lake, which has an average depth of about 15 feet.

At the time the plane took off from New Orleans, the visibility was good. There was a light rain over the area. Winds were calm.

The Eastern spokesman said the plane made routine checks after takeoff and vanished from radar with no alarm given and no hint of trouble. It was the first major crash involving an airliner taking off on a scheduled flight from New Orleans International Airport.

NEW YORK (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Gminski of Watonsa, Wis., and their older daughter were among persons listed by Eastern Air Lines as aboard a plane missing after takeoff from New Orleans early today.

Louise Gminski, an Eastern stewardess who lived in Charlotte, N.C., and her parents had left last week for a Mexico vacation. The plane was bound from Mexico City to New Orleans City with stops at New Orleans and Atlanta, Ga.

Gminski was truck manager for a Milwaukee auto firm and his wife worked as a secretary for a Milwaukee law firm. The couple had two other children.

Filibuster May Tie Up Senate For Months

Johnson Could Use Time to Clear Up Foreign Affairs

BY JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — For President Johnson the ideal situation would leave him free to concentrate on dealing with Congress, where he was one of the experts of the century. Foreign affairs were not his field.

But, ironically, once the Senate tackles the civil rights bill, perhaps this week, a Southern filibuster against it will tie up all other Senate business for weeks and perhaps months.

Johnson will need all his magic to save the bill but for those many weeks of filibustering there isn't much he can do except, perhaps, devote himself more completely to the unfinished foreign problems needing his attention.

For example: Cuba, Panama and Viet Nam.

Kennedy's Deftness
But Johnson simply does not have John F. Kennedy's deftness in foreign affairs, at least in discussing them publicly. He has had some setbacks in negotiations although Kennedy might have had the same luck.

He couldn't, for example, get Britain or other friends and allies to cut off trade with Fidel Castro's Cuba.

Over the weekend there came a strange finish to his two-day conference in California with Mexican President Adolfo Lopez Mateos when the two men wrote a communique on their meeting.

It glowed with agreement and agreeableness. Then Lopez Mateos held a news conference and rubbed off some of the glow. This involved Venezuela's charge that Cuba is trying to undermine and destroy Venezuela's government.

The Organization of American States — Cuba is no longer a member — is investigating the charges.

Although the Johnson - Lopez Mateos communique told of their desire to strengthen the OAS, Lopez Mateos told reporters the United Nations, not the OAS, should be investigating Venezuela's charges. This was not mentioned in the communique.

Mexico's Foreign Minister Manuel Tello reportedly said Mexico would not necessarily see itself bound to support sanctions against Cuba if the OAS voted them.

What this might mean to the future of OAS — if Mexico ignored the OAS decision on Cuba — is anybody's guess. At the same time Lopez Mateos said the OAS should try to solve this country's difficulties with Panama.

1903 Treaty
Panama wants to renegotiate the 1903 treaty which permits this country to control the Panama Canal Zone indefinitely. The United States has offered to discuss the matter but has refused any pledges in advance.

If this may have caused some confusion, a speech Johnson made while in California was not entirely clear, either, although it was interpreted as a tough speech.

At one point, as a consolation for the troubles of the West, he spoke of the "spreading civil war" among the Communist nations.

Important Story
One newsmen there considered that important enough to make it the lead on his story for Saturday morning.

But this writer has been informed that before the story got into print Johnson's press secretary, Pierre Salinger, phoned the newsmen that he was over-emphasizing the importance of that part of the speech.

Others used a different lead, based on another part of the Johnson speech. In this he said, without naming them, that "those" engaged in the "external direction and supply" of the Communist guerrillas fighting the American-backed government of South Viet Nam were playing a "deeply dangerous game."

This was interpreted by one reporter as part of a new campaign of psychological warfare against the Communists in North Viet Nam. But Monday there were indications from inside the Johnson administration that no policy decision has been made on the way the Vietnamese war is to be fought.

And, meanwhile, as he has with a number of the problems, Johnson set up a committee to make a study of the situation in Viet Nam.

One Man, One Vote

The decision by the United States Supreme Court that congressional districts must be reapportioned to carry out the dictum of "one man, one vote" as fairly as possible has no immediate consequence in Wisconsin. Our state legislature accomplished a reapportionment at the last session which was accepted as fair by both political parties.

The same situation does not prevail in some other states, however. Texas congressional districts have been held unconstitutional by a federal court and the matter was under appeal. Presumably the high court decision negates an appeal, and Texas' 23 congressmen may have to run on a state-at-large basis this fall. A similar suit has been filed in Connecticut.

Johnson and Wisconsin History

One of the curious facts about current politics in the United States is the universal assumption, from the sophisticated circles on the Potomac to the most remote precincts of upper Wisconsin, that President Lyndon Johnson will become the nominee of the Democrats for the presidency by acclamation when the national party convention is held in August.

In Wisconsin, especially, this is a mildly puzzling thing, remembering that some of the leading prophets of liberalism within the Wisconsin party organization were holding their noses in lofty disdain about Senator Johnson as recently as four years ago when the late Mr. Kennedy decided it would be expedient to have him as a running-mate.

Gaylord Nelson, now one of the pillars of the Wisconsin party, launched his own senate campaign with a blistering and almost contemptuous attack upon Johnson when he was the majority leader of the senate in 1957. When Senator Proxmire went to Washington he won national attention—perhaps by design—with a public challenge of Johnson's philosophy, program, and method. At Los Angeles in 1960 some Wisconsin delegates publicly protested the nomination of the Texas leader for the vice presidency.

We are aware that agility and a capacity to accommodate to reality are among the essential skills of the politician. Thus we have no doubt that the Nelsons and Proxmires and even Governor Reynolds with his rather more advanced conceptions of the liberal philosophy, and the rest, are quite convinced that Mr. Johnson is their inevitable standard-bearer this year and that there is no one who is likely to be willing to challenge him even if they had any doubts about his worthiness.

Water Lesson From Green Bay

Operating revenues of the municipal water department in Green Bay exceeded $1 million for the first time in 1963. And after deducting operating expenses of $640,000 and paying $173,000 in interest on its bonds, the department wound up with a net income of $250,000.

In other words Green Bay's water department has become a highly profitable business. And this should be of more than passing interest to the city of Appleton as it contemplates investing in a new water supply.

The record-smashing income was attributed to a more than four million gallon increase in water consumption for the year. The total pumpage of 3.87 billion

But there are some long-range consequences which may be important to Wisconsin. The decision further strengthens the recent trend in which the judiciary assumes the power to reapportion if legislative bodies do not carry out their responsibilities in the matter.

There is gross inequity in the apportionment of county board seats in Wisconsin. The state system does not even bear any relationship to the principle of one-man, one-vote.

If the Wisconsin legislature does not recognize its responsibility to apportion county boards on a population basis it is highly conceivable that the courts might take cognizance of the situation.

Yet there were times when Wisconsin Democrats were somewhat more independent, or adventurous. The Truman position in 1948 was roughly analogous to the Johnson role today. Mr. Truman had succeeded through the death of the elected president, Mr. Roosevelt. There was no real doubt of his nomination for a succeeding full term. Yet there was a stout resistance to the idea among Wisconsin Democrats, who at one time had to adjourn a state convention in a desperate effort to avoid a repudiation of the Truman candidacy. There was fond talk about the availability of Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, among others.

There was a footnote to that incident that echoes in contemporary Wisconsin affairs. Robert Tehan then was "Mr. Democrat" in Wisconsin. After Mr. Truman's election to a full term in his own right, Mr. Tehan became a candidate for appointment to the federal district judgeship at Milwaukee. Mr. Truman's reservations about Candidate Tehan's loyalty were shown by his tardy acceptance of his credentials, as older Wisconsin Democrats will recall.

We may guess that if the White House at that time could have found a qualified Democrat of unquestioned loyalty to the man from Missouri, Judge Tehan might not now be presiding in his Milwaukee court, 16 years later. Last year Mr. Kennedy faced a similar decision. He passed over a highly qualified Democratic candidate who was cool to his own presidential candidacy, and chose David Rabinovitz, whose eligibility for the federal district court for the western district at Madison continues to be debated with intensity throughout Wisconsin and may yet be a mild cause of embarrassment to the Democrats in this new election year.

Court Decision, Population Forecasts Mean New Congress

BY MAX FREEDMAN

At present we have no way of measuring the political results of the Supreme Court's decision that congressional districts must be roughly equal in population. We are still in the realm of conjecture and forecast. The confident predictions by Republicans and Democrats are not always supported by their more candid statements in private.

Fortunately we have an impartial and reliable guide in forecasting the long-term changes in our population.

Mr. Richard Scammon, head of the Census Bureau, has projected the trend in population for 1980. His results have been incorporated in a recent address by Senator Hubert Humphrey delivered before the Supreme Court's decision.

Freedman

Senator Humphrey quoted the Census Bureau's forecast that our population by 1980 will be in excess of 260,000,000. The bulk of the population will be in the cities. There will, for example, be more than eighty million people living in a giant urban chain along the Atlantic Seaboard from Boston to Washington. Another chain of cities will run along the rim of the Great Lakes from Buffalo to Chicago. In Florida and elsewhere along the Gulf Coast the clusters of population will intensify and thicken. A few inland wells will develop around Minneapolis-St. Paul, Denver, Salt Lake City, and Phoenix. And there will be a massive movement of population to the West.

Using the findings of the Census Bureau, Senator Humphrey described the effect of these changes on Congress.

In 1980 cities will be under-represented in the Senate but they will dominate the membership of the House. The major changes in the House will consist of a shift of power to the great city areas: a shift of power clearly westward beyond the Mountain States and to the West Coast; the Middle West, barely holding its own;

the states of the Old South, the Border States, New England, and the large Middle Atlantic States all losing representation.

The Old South will lose 10 per cent or more of its House seats. New England will forfeit more than 15 per cent of its seats. Texas and Florida will add 15 per cent to their present representation. The Pacific Coast will gain more than 10 seats and register an increase of almost 20 per cent in the House.

Virtually every new seat in Congress will represent a large city.

By the time today's youngsters are able to vote, the House of Representatives will be a body measurably more western in composition and more urban in its interests. Most Americans will have no contact with rural America—a result which would have alarmed Jefferson and other prophets of American destiny.

Senator Humphrey asked a series of probing questions based on these statistics.

What will this mean to Congress in such matters, for example, as planning, a word that is still considered almost un-American? What will hap-

Litterbug Decides To Sweep Up Streets

ALBUQUERQUE (AP) — A 22-year-old youth spent 45 minutes recently sweeping the sidewalk and gutter on both sides of Copper Street, N.W., between Fourth and Fifth, rather than spend 10 days in jail for breaking beer bottles in the area.

The young man, charged with violation of the antilitter ordinance, was given his choice of sweeping the sidewalk or spending a few days in jail, by Municipal Judge James A. Maloney.

He chose to sweep and the city provided him a broom.

Telephones Really Are Complex Units

NEW YORK (AP) — That telephone sitting on the desk contains 475 parts — count 'em. There are 87 in the dial unit, 75 in the handset, 73 in the ringer and 108 in the electrical network. Western Electric, which makes telephones, said these are combined with 132 additional parts on the assembly line.

players were named to the All-Tournament Basketball team in the Green Bay Diocesan Freshman tourney. From St. Mary School, Menasha, were Ken Resch, Dave Jung, Dick Montonati and Ted Pontow. Others were Tom Weigman of St. John, Little Chute, and Don Otto, St. Joseph School, Appleton.

Miss Helen Casper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Casper, Appleton, was named to the editorial board of the Lawrentian. Miss Casper, a sophomore, had been feature editor and news editor of the college newspaper.

David Hartjes was re-elected secretary and Al Hartzheim treasurer of Holy Cross parish in Kaukauna.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brockman were co-chairmen of a masked ball in the Mardi Gras manner. The social event of the Prom Club of Menasha was to be the organization's last event before Lent.

Democratic Split Is Battle of Personalities, Growing More Bitter

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — Because about half of the voters of Wisconsin have chosen the Democratic ticket in recent elections, the division in the Democratic Party organization has become one of the important local political developments of the season.

But the nature of the quarrel that has occupied the attention of the principal party politicians for the last six weeks to the exclusion of most other matters remains obscure, at least with respect to the dispatches covering the developments at the recent party caucuses.

Wyngaard

Why should the party commanders, on the eve of a probably critical struggle with the Republican organization which promises a unified attack for the first time in half a decade, risk a dangerous internal fight? Questions of philosophy and program are obviously not involved. There is no real quarrel about principal office nominations. Gov. Reynolds and Sen. Proxmire, for example, are as sure of nominations for new terms as are the uncontested Republican candidates for nominations to their offices, Warren Knowles and Wilbur Reink. There is a fair chance that the lesser ticket places will be arranged without significant fights. It must appear to be a dense mystery, indeed, to the rank and file dues payer in the ranks, doing his bit for the party in Wood-smoke. Wis.

THE CLUE

In most publicity the schism has been described as representing the rivalries of Gov. Reynolds and National Committeeman Patrick J. Lucey, on the one hand, and Sen. Gaylord Nelson and Party Chairman Louis Hanson, on the other.

Because they are the principal spokesmen of the party (with Sen. Proxmire who appears willing enough to stay out of the row today, after a tentative gesture on the side of Reynolds and Lucey a month ago) this is perhaps a suitable way to describe what is going on. But like most convenient tags, it falls short of the full explanation.

The quarrel is actually between Nelson and Lucey. Reynolds and Hanson inherited their positions and their consequent troubles. To a considerable degree Hanson is chairman because Nelson backed him a year ago. To a considerable degree Reynolds holds the state's highest office today because Lucey was one of his key original supporters giving encouragement when the outlook was doubtful.

Reynolds regards Lucey as his best friend in politics. Like the realist he is, he doesn't propose to abandon him now. Hansen must regard Nelson as his principal sponsor and apparently is willing to deliver also.

BUT WHY?

The Nelson-Lucey quarrel has been continuing for several years, without a cause that makes any sense to outsiders or even those party men one step removed from the top command. The fact that it should be continued now, when the organization will need its best effort to win another election, plainly indicates that it is a mortal one.

The struggle for dominance, to determine who will occupy the rank and hold the prestige of the late Robert M. LaFollette Sr., whose spiritual descendant most of these men claim to be, is plain enough. But the question remains why these mature, pragmatic men, aware that the winner of the struggle may inherit a defeated and broken machine if the fight continues, should persist in their cannibalistic purposes now.

Whatever the basis of the deep animus between Nelson and Lucey, recent developments have made it evident that peace will be extremely difficult to attain.

After Hanson's repeated and bitter denunciations, the party cannot avoid the conclusion that he is speaking for his mentor. Having said what he has said, Hanson probably cannot now with any grace fail to fight to a conclusion with an attempt to unseat Lucey as top party officer at the party state convention this summer.

Strictly Personal

Mentation Is Process We Need to Use More

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

People are peculiar about the use of words. A reader in Canada has objected because I recently used the word "mentation" in a column, and he was unable to find it in his abridged dictionary.

"Mentation" means "total mental activity," or the whole process involved in thinking. It states in one word what would otherwise take three or four; it is concise, specific, and objective.

There are two reasons for using long, difficult or obscure words. One reason is that they offer a kind of shorthand; they say in brief what it would take a whole sentence to say in any other way. We should learn more of these words, and use them more often.

Harris

The second reason is exactly the opposite. A long or obscure word is used to conceal the true meaning of something, to disguise fuzzy thinking or special pleading, or to display intellectual superiority. We should avoid all such words like the plague.

But the average person cannot and will not distinguish between the two, and resents any use of a strange word for whatever purpose. He thinks the writer is putting on airs, or engaging in double-talk. He demands "simplicity" in whatever he reads.

But simplicity is not a virtue in itself; it is only a means to an end. One of the most dangerous things we can do is to provide simple answers to complex questions. If it is sometimes the flaw of the expert to complicate the easy, it is usually the flaw of the layman to over-simplify the complex.

Social scientists are especially fond of using long, cumbersome and hyphenated phrases to describe quite common observations and conclusions. This is because they are trying to imitate the exact sciences (which cannot be done) and because they are unsure of themselves, and embarrassed to exhibit their platitudes in naked language.

On the other hand, an auto mechanic uses "special" words because they save time: "compression ratio" is simply a verbal shorthand to express a fairly complicated physical process. There is no easier or shorter way to say it, and the listener has no right to demand one.

It is foolish to say "commence" when we could say "start," or to say "nugatory" when we could say "worthless"; whoever does this is merely pretentious. But some words have no ordinary synonyms; some words are so highly charged and compressed with meaning that they resemble a tool designed for three or four operations. Obviously, it is better to use such a word than a tool that is clumsy and limited in its operation. What we need is more mentation on the whole subject of words.

Looking Backward

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Feb. 13, 1864

We are informed that in consequence of some rich, hard hits at certain members of the Faculty at Lawrence University, brought out in the recent public debate of the Phoenixians, this Society has been prohibited from holding any public exercises during the present collegiate year.

We do not wish to be understood as encouraging disobedience in any student or Society to the established rules of the College, as without some strictness of discipline and rule any public institution of a y educationally character must necessarily fail to secure the confidence of its patrons, and parents will not entrust their children to any such school.

We believe that the general best interests of the student are conserved in the discipline of Lawrence University and that it has the confidence of the public in this respect. But from what we have heard in this matter of suspension, it does look to us as if some of the Faculty are rather sensitive and have acted with haste. If we are wrong we are willing to correct any of these statements. President Mason has been absent, engaged in the work of the College and is not responsible for the action of his contemporaries.

Polls' Value Doubtful Until Convention

Voters Have Little To Say in Selecting Party's Candidates

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
WASHINGTON — Public-opinion polls may have some value in measuring voter sentiment when nominees already have been chosen, but they are of doubtful value in the period before the national conventions of the two major parties.

The voters really have little to say, relatively speaking, about a presidential nomination. Even the candidates triumphant in primary elections in the few states that hold them are frequently brushed aside by the national conventions. This has happened often in both parties. There are exceptions — as when a candidate already has the nomination sewed up and his entry into the primaries is mainly for publicity purposes.

Today it is meaningless to ask high standing in the current Republican voters whether they want Goldwater or Rockefeller asked whether he would be favored or Nixon to be the Republican nominee — just as superfluous retical Republican candidates — as it is to ask Democrats whom they wish to see the Republican nominee. For the few is disunited not only on candidates but on issues. There is still plenty of time, however, for the Republicans to the delegates and the organization make their case against the Democratic administration. But who pick them — are not influenced by the polls that are published indicating the preference of voters. These politically experienced leaders make up their own minds and pass judgment by using criteria of their own.

Popularity Basis

Many a presidential candidate has seemed to be in the lead on a personal popularity basis in pre-convention days, but the professionals alone knew exactly what an opposition barrage could do to him during a campaign and why he was a vulnerable candidate and should be put aside.

When a citizen is polled, for instance, on whether he would like to see Rockefeller or Goldwater nominated, he may be thinking of each one on the basis of speeches he has read. But he wouldn't, as a rule, be able to foresee what political assets or liabilities the prospective nominee might have. A professional would take every factor into account.

Politically speaking — and this means looking at it from a professional or leader basis — there are only two men at present who are considered as likely to get into the finals in the contest for the Republican nomination. They are Nixon and Goldwater. The liabilities of other prospective candidates are often discussed, especially those whose names are not well known. There are exceptions — as when a candidate already has the nomination sewed up and his entry into the primaries is mainly for publicity purposes.

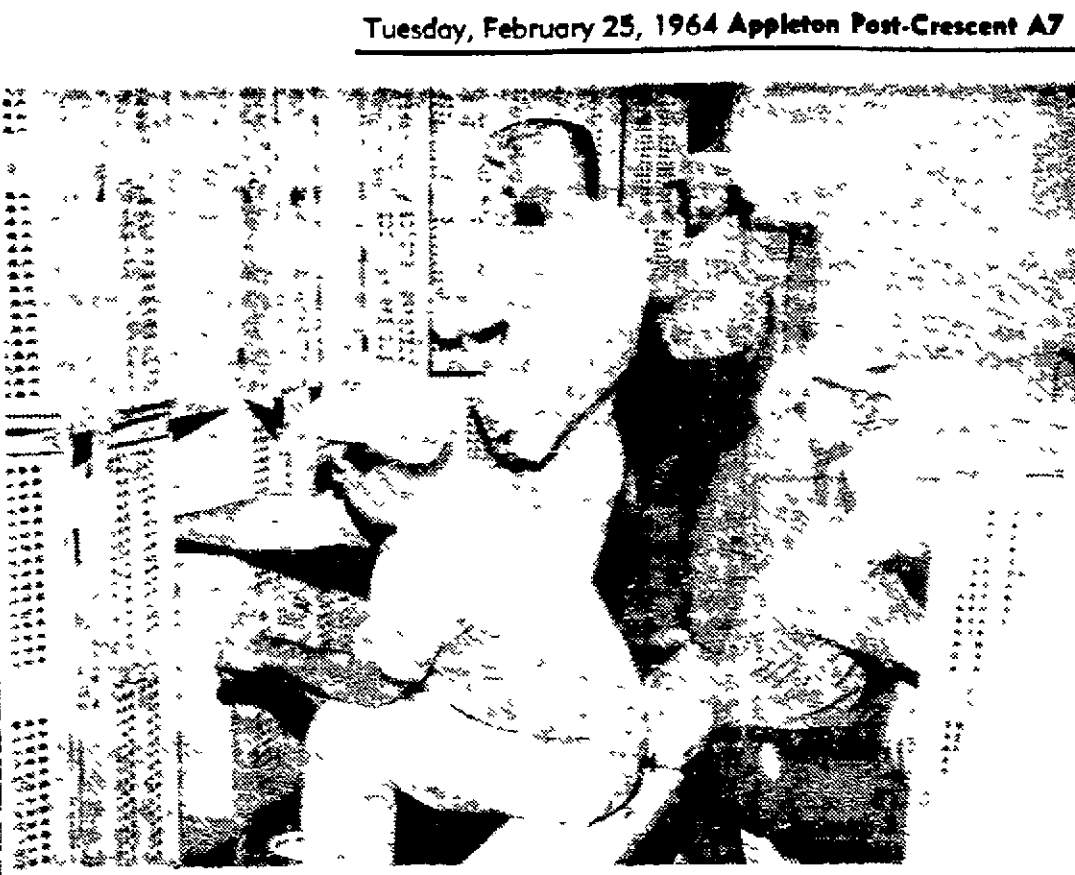

As for President Johnson's standing in the current polls — when the question is whether he would be favored or Nixon to be the Republican nominee — just as superfluous retical Republican candidates — as it is to ask Democrats whom they wish to see the Republican nominee. For the few is disunited not only on candidates but on issues. There is still plenty of time, however, for the Republicans to the delegates and the organization make their case against the Democratic administration. But

Asthma Formula Prescribed Most By Doctors—Available Now Without Prescription

Stops Attacks in Minutes... Relief Lasts for Hours!
New York, N. Y. (Special)—The asthma formula prescribed more than any other by doctors for their private patients is now available to asthmatics without prescription. Medical tests proved this formula stops asthma attacks in minutes and gives hours of freedom from recurrence of painful asthma spasms. This formula is so effective that it is the physician's leading asthma prescription—so safe when used as directed that now it can be sold without prescription in most states.

in tiny tablets called Primatene. These Primatene Tablets open bronchial tubes, loosen congestion, relieve chest nervous tension. All without painful injections. The secret is—Primatene combines 3 medicines (in full prescription strength) found most effective in combination for asthma distress. Each performs a special purpose. So look forward to sleep at night, and freedom from asthma spasms. Get Primatene at any drugstore.

none of the prominent Republicans who are considered as candidates.

Nixon, for instance, is supposed to be strong with the "middle-of-the-road" group and with the Republican voters with so-called "liberal" leanings. He has had the benefit of eight years' experience as a vice president who sat in on the making and operation of the Eisenhower administration's policies. He is a natural to pit against Lyndon Johnson, who was vice president for two years and 10 months and who is committed to carry out some of the Kennedy policies that are not popular today. With the conservatives — who are the largest single segment of the party — Senator Goldwater is unquestionably the favorite.

So the logic that the political-ballooning, the Arizona senatorly experienced delegates will appear to have the largest number of delegates but not enough to win the nomination. Nixon, Goldwater

Many delegates will not like the idea of running Nixon again. The counter argument will be time for such a ticket. A man made, however, that he did likely to win the nomination come close to winning the presidency in 1960. When the chips are down and the delegates and their leaders have to look the facts in the face, they will find themselves in a tight spot. Strongest Nominee

As for the man who would represent the Republican party point of view make the strongest vice-presidential nominee, here, too, Senator Goldwater would hardly wish to commit himself in advance, and neither would his managers or supporters, for they are confident they can win first place. Until this is decided, they will pooh-pooh any idea of the vice presidency. Lyndon Johnson's managers and he himself brushed aside all suggestions as to the vice-presidential nomination at the 1960 Democratic national convention, and only when Senator John F. Kennedy was nominated was the door opened for consideration of the Texas senator.

Thus are vice-presidential nominees often chosen. The result rarely conforms to the trends reported in the preceding months by the public-opinion polls, especially when there have been many candidates in an open race.

Good Record Is Predicted for This Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Carl Albert, House Democratic leader, predicted today Congress would adjourn in midsummer, "with one of the best records of any Congress in history."

"We should be able to finish all of our work and get out of here before the political campaigns get under way in September," the Oklahoman said in an interview.

"As far as the House itself is concerned," Albert said, "we are over the legislative hump. We have already this year passed the most far-reaching civil rights bill in history and a $16.9-billion military procurement measure. The tax bill which the House passed last year will be on the President's desk by the end of this week."

Albert noted that a timetable announced by the Appropriations Committee calls for final House action on all money bills before the end of the fiscal year on June 30. The first bill is due to reach the House floor late this week.

Connally, Johnson Differences Reported Grossly Exaggerated
NEW YORK (AP) — Texas Gov. John Connally says reports of his political differences with President Johnson are "grossly exaggerated."

Connally made the remark Monday to newsmen in New York, where he will dedicate the Texas Pavilion at the World's Fair Wednesday.

There have been reports that Connally was unhappy because Johnson had dissuaded a congressman from running against Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex.

Shrimp Boat Stolen By Defector Returned
KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — A shrimp boat stolen from Key West by an American who defected to Fidel Castro was back today.

Its owner, Charles Griffin of Savannah, Ga., brought it from Havana Monday night.

The 25-foot Johnny Reb was anchored off Key West pending immigration and customs routine. The American who sought Cuban asylum, Dennis Kirby, 22, a California sailor, had said he was dissatisfied with American life and wanted to compensate Cuba for the seizure of four Cuban trawlers near Key West. The trawlers returned to Havana last Thursday.

Tax Cut Billed as Boon to Business

Legislators Hope Consumer Spending to Boost Economy

BY SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—The federal tax cut is billed by its sponsors as just the thing to get the '60s to soaring at last.

They count on its stimulation of spending by consumers and corporations and rely also on the basic soundness of business. In many respects the a real boost to the economy, both in production and consumption. But no one mini-

The big push from family formations should be just ahead — good news for home builders and furnishers, makers of appliances and children's clothes — and the medical profession.

A second reason for optimism is that demand for goods has been catching up with industrial capacity to produce. Surplus facilities built in the late '50s are mostly in operation today. At the same time, the oldest plants have been made obsolete by the fast pace of technical improvements and false hopes of a soaring decade are being displaced.

Many industries are near optimum production — enough that was supposed to furnish surplus for flexibility and emergency. The bang is showing up where agencies, but no longer a drag, it counts. # Costs of Services Have Climbed to New Highs

BY SYLVIA PORTER

From now on, changes in the prices of food will have a smaller impact on the government's so-called cost of living index than ever before.

Porter

At the same time changes in home mortgage interest rates, in real estate taxes and house insurance will have a greater impact on consumer price trends than ever before. Also of greater influence will be the expenses involved in health and recreation, in driving and maintaining a car, in operating a

The marketbasket of goods and services on which the Bureau of Labor Statistics bases its consumer price index is now being overhauled to reflect the profound shifts in our spending patterns since the early 1950s. While the contents of the new marketbasket will be a closely guarded secret until next Tuesday, the findings of the BLS's consumer spending surveys in 1961 and 1962 indicate clearly the two most significant changes which will be made. The first is that the importance of food in the average city family's marketbasket will be way down to a record low and the second is that the importance of services will be way up to a record high.

Food Prices
What does this mean? One meaning is that ups and downs in food prices, often violent and temporary, won't kick around the index as much as in the buying practices, administration. This will be a stabilizing force.

But far overshadowing this is the fact that changes in costs of an ordinary year. The overhaul services will have much bigger influence on the index, for, as the timetable set up then called summing that service costs continue to rise, this alone will tend to lift the price index more rapidly than in the past.

It's no news that the costs of services have been increasing much more than prices in general. A dramatic illustration of this is the sharp difference between the movements of the government's wholesale price index. The wholesale price index has hardly budged in five years; this index prices only commodities. The consumer price index has climbed year after year, without interruption: this index prices services as well as goods.

More specifically, food prices have risen very little in the past five years. Prices of automobiles and appliances have stuck almost in a straight line and many durable goods are priced below a year ago.

Medical Services
But medical care services have soared 21 per cent in the past five years. Transportation services have jumped 11 per cent. Rents have increased 7 per cent. In the past 12 months, the costs of such services as haircuts and hairdos, shoe and TV repairs have gone up close to 3 per cent.

Admittedly, the pace of rise in service costs has been slowing in recent years and the big rise in this sphere is history. But the trend still continues relentlessly upward and there are no signs whatsoever of a turn.

The consumer price index is not just another government statistic. The wages of millions of workers are tied to this index. Month after month, even tiny fluctuations in the CPI make the front pages, influence consumption and business psychology.

Administration policies, Congress' attitudes.

Nor is this updating coming in an ordinary year. The overhaul was begun four years ago and the timetable set up then called for release of the new index in early 1964. The schedule set up long ago is simply being followed.

Massive Tax Cut

But this also happens to be a year when we're getting the most massive tax cuts in history. It's a year of renewed worry about price and wage trends, of a critical wage negotiation in the automobile industry, of a presidential election. Every wiggle in this index will be watched for clues to whether the tax cuts are reviving inflation and whether the administration's wage-price policies are working out. This will be true abroad too.

Thus, it must be recognized that just the revision of the marketbasket to give more weight to service costs is likely to pull up the index as 1964 rolls on. The CPI is destined to play a big-time role in politics and economics this year.

Illinois Professor Schedules Talk at Hotel in Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Prof. Revilo P. Oliver, the John Birch Society figure whose scheduled appearance at Marquette University was cancelled by the school, is due to speak instead at a downtown hotel April 2.

Mrs. Peggy Hehne, assistant manager of the Plankinton Hotel, confirmed that arrangements had been made for Room.

Marquette authorities banned Oliver's appearance on the basis of allegedly inflammatory statements made by the University of Illinois professor in a Birch Society publication.

Mark Polans, a Marquette senior, said he had made the arrangements for Oliver's talk at the hotel.

Park Employees Free Duck Stuck in Ice

NEW YORK (AP)—The duck was stuck.

Park department employees tried to free it from the ice of Central Park Lake Sunday.

They threw a ladder onto the ice, hoping to break it and dislodge the quacker. The ice broke.

Then someone shoveled a boat out of ice and snow and rowed out, breaking the ice around the duck with an oar.

Unstuck came the duck.

Cardiovascular Death Rate for Men Goes Down

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Heart Association reported that at the upward trend in cardiovascular disease deaths among middle-aged men had been reversed for the first time.

Dr. John J. Sampson, association president, said there had been a six per cent decrease in the 1962-63 year of cardiovascular disease deaths among men between 45 and 64.

He noted that deaths among men in this age group had been moving upward for years in contrast to a steadily declining rate among women of the same age.

He added, however, that diseases of the heart and blood vessels still cause more than half of all deaths in the United States each year.

Snow Derby Set By Area Scouts

KAUKAUNA — East district scouters will hold a snow derby at Bishop Dingle, Sherwood, March 14 rather than the first aid meet held annually at this time.

Currently boys are making sleds for the event and hoping for snow to make the affair a success. Plans call for five or six events to test skills of participants participating, according to William Steffens, chairman.

Registration will be from 1 to 2 p.m. Hot chocolate and doughnuts will be served by the Senior Patrol of Troop 27.

Cultural Agreement Expected to Improve U. S.-Soviet Relations

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union and the United States signed a two-year cultural agreement and both sides predicted it would help improve relations between the two countries.

The exchange provides for the Moscow Philharmonic Orchestra and the colorful Leningrad Ballet Company to go to the United States late this year. While the Oberlin College Choir, Holiday on Ice, the Cleveland Orchestra and other entertainers will come to the Soviet Union.

The exchanges include students, scientists, musicians and industrial exhibits.

Mitchell Announces Move After Meeting With Fair Sponsors

Appleton "Pig Fair" is going to have a new home. The fair, always held the last Saturday in the month, will be at Valley Fair Shopping Center, at Valley Fair Shopping Center, from now on.

Mayor Clarence Mitchell made the announcement today after conferring with fair sponsors and other officials. For years the fair has been held on the lot where the West Ramp parking structure is now located.

While the ramp was under construction, the Aid Association for Lutherans helped use of the lot for the fair.

Temporary Arrangement
However, it was to be a temporary arrangement until the city's parking structure was completed. The East Ramp was built and opened last year.

"Since the completion of the two city ramps,"

Valley Fair is pleased to welcome all participants and patrons of the monthly 'Pig Fair' (Farmer's Market)! We believe you will find the spacious facilities of our 2,000 car parking area completely satisfactory for your traditional event and we are happy to make this space available for your needs!

'Tom Jones' Gets 10 Oscar Nominations

Albert Finney, Star of Movie, One of Five Named Best Actors

BY JAMES BACON
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — About the only surprise about this year's Oscar nominations is that the movie "Tom Jones" got only 10 nominations.

True, it was the leader—with "Cleopatra" second with nine—at the 36th annual Academy Awards nominations announced Monday.

Ever since it was first previewed here some months ago, "Tom Jones" has been the prestige picture—the one every producer and director in Hollywood wished he had made.

The rowdy British-made film starred the man many believe to be the best young actor on stage or screen today—Albert Finney.

Hard Man to Beat
Finney played the hero of the bawdy Fielding novel of 18th-century England. On stage Finney was a moody "Luther" but he played "Tom Jones" with the sex appeal of a Gable and the comedy finesse of a Chaplin.

Naturally, he was nominated as best actor.

He will be a hard man to beat when the Oscars are handed out April 13th.

Others Nominated
His competition: Rex Harrison as the Caesar of "Cleopatra"; Paul Newman as the despicable "Hud"; Richard Harris as the football player of "Sporting Life"; and Sidney Poitier as the benefactor of the nuns in "Lilies of the Field."

Finney's toughest fight will come from Poitier, the brilliant Negro star of the low-budget sleeper of the year No Negro actor ever has won the top acting Oscar.

Actress Choices
As to the nominees for the best actress category—anybody can win.

Panel Shows Not Easy, Says Gene Rayburn

NEW YORK (AP)—Gene Rayburn, who guides the progress of NBC's daytime "Match Game," insists that participating in a panel show is not as easy as it looks.

Rayburn, whose broadcasting experience includes announcing, disc jockeying and acting, says that players and host must not only concentrate on the game at hand but also give the session "dimensions of vitality, lightness, and humor."

Rayburn, in addition to presiding over "Match Game," is guessing game, often turns up as a panelist on other shows.

Most Difficult
"To Tell the Truth," he says, is the most difficult game to play.

"People seem to think the panel has some advance information about the contestants," he said. "We don't know a single thing until the information is read off. It's a fast game in which a lot of information helps. Peggy Cass, on the panel, absolutely amazes me."

Rayburn grew up in Chicago, got into radio by becoming an NBC page boy and moved on to announcing. In 1942 he had a radio show on a New York station, then teamed up with Jack Lescault—now of "Today"—for a comedy show.

For the past 12 years, Rayburn has worked as a single-announcing, hosting and sitting on panels and occasionally doing a dramatic role.

"My biggest headache is trying to figure out new ways of introducing the panelists. I write off the session because the window made so much noise that he couldn't hear the lawyers' talk."

Hemorrhoids?

Advanced new formula gives faster, longer-lasting relief—works 5 ways

In recent clinical tests of new M.P.O.—an advanced treatment for hemorrhoids—doctors reported "results were good to excellent" for 5 out of every 6 patients! New M.P.O. works five ways to give you faster, longer-lasting relief. Here's how:

1. Starts easing pain faster. You get more medically accepted pain-relieving ingredients, including Benzocaine, than in the preparation you may now be using.
2. Shrinks hemorrhoids sooner. M.P.O. quickly releases the vasoconstrictor, Ephedrine Sulfate. You can almost feel it start to work.
3. Speeds relief of embarrassing itch. M.P.O.'s medication is homogenized for faster absorption, faster relief.
4. Gives longer-lasting relief. Soothing medication is concentrated against inflamed tissues for more prolonged comfort.
5. Fights danger of infection. Proven germ-killer Hexachlorophene combats bacteria.

Rosemary DeCamp Teaches Drama on Trip to Pakistan

BY BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Rosemary DeCamp has made the transition from Pakistan to welcome. The Pakistani are a very warm and friendly people.

"Petticoat Junction" with the ease that has always marked her acting career.

Miss DeCamp, best known in films for Mother Cohran in "Yankee Doodle Dandy" and in television for "The Bob Cummings Show," was doing a "Petticoat" only days after returning from a three-month tour for the State Department.

"The trip was a rare and wonderful experience," she commented. "It made me realize how many friends we have abroad. It also made me realize how much has to be done to keep those friends."

Custom Changes
The actress said the trip evolved through friendship with an American cultural officer who was stationed in Pakistan. He suggested she could speak to school and theater groups while her husband, Judge John Shidder, could confer with legal officials.

"I was uneasy at first: the last teaching I had done was 30 years ago at Mills College," she said. "But they made me feel transition from Pakistan to welcome. The Pakistani are a very warm and friendly people."

"They seemed very eager to learn about drama, even though they have very little opportunity to display their talents. There was no language barrier, since most speak English as a hang-over from the British days."

"In some plays I had to make concessions for local custom. In 'The Glass Menagerie,' I had to change the kissing scene, since public kissing is just not done."

The actor kissed the girl's hand—and even then she pulled her sleeve down so his lips wouldn't touch her skin."

Telephone Hour Has 1,000th Show

BY TV SCOUT
9-10 (Channel 4-5) — Happy anniversary to the Bell Telephone Hour as it celebrates its 1,000th broadcast (on radio and television) with a joyous show.

The highlight: the Casadesus family, father Robert, mother put to good use again when McGaby, son Jean, playing the father of the Navy, lets him masquerade as the elderly French father of Susan Silo. She is enamored of Virgil Edson on a trip across the Sierras in a flivver that is looking for a place to die.

9-10 (Channel 11) — The Fugitive begins a two-part which sends David Janssen and Eileen Heckart, as a nun whose faith — at first — is child-like, on a trip across the Sierras in a flivver that is looking for a place to die.

8-9 (Channel 4-5) — "Occupational Hazard," on The Richard Boone Show, is an ironic drama about a hired killer and his romance with the shy, piano-playing daughter of his clients.

8-9 (Channel 11) — Producer Stanley Colbert feels "Clancy" on The Greatest Show on Earth is one of his best episodes. But all viewers may not agree. You can't fault the acting of Edmund O'Brien as a flamboyant Irishman who refuses to retire the aging horse used in his family act. (Color)

6:30-7:30 (Channel 11) — Combat has an excellent, highly suspenseful, visual cat and mouse game between Vic Morrow and Alfred Ryder. Ryder is a German officer for whom the hunt is "uber alles," and he relishes his pursuit of Morrow when they are trapped in an abandoned winery.

6:30-7:30 (Channel 4-5) — "Fear is a Handful of Dust," on Mr. Priest, the daughter of Ivy Bak-Novak is the first teleplay for 24-year-old Carol O'Brien, who the U.S.), Jack answers audience requests.

9-10 (Channel 2) — Nancy Walker, as a policewoman desperate to make a masher arrest, gives The Garry Moore Show a bright spot. And so does talented Caterina Valente's singing.

8-9 (Channel 4-5) — "Occupational Hazard," on The Richard Boone Show, is an ironic drama about a hired killer and his romance with the shy, piano-playing daughter of his clients.

8-9 (Channel 11) — Producer Stanley Colbert feels "Clancy" on The Greatest Show on Earth is one of his best episodes. But all viewers may not agree. You can't fault the acting of Edmund O'Brien as a flamboyant Irishman who refuses to retire the aging horse used in his family act. (Color)

6:30-7:30 (Channel 11) — Combat has an excellent, highly suspenseful, visual cat and mouse game between Vic Morrow and Alfred Ryder. Ryder is a German officer for whom the hunt is "uber alles," and he relishes his pursuit of Morrow when they are trapped in an abandoned winery.

6:30-7:30 (Channel 4-5) — "Fear is a Handful of Dust," on Mr. Priest, the daughter of Ivy Bak-Novak is the first teleplay for 24-year-old Carol O'Brien, who the U.S.), Jack answers audience requests.

9-10 (Channel 2) — Nancy Walker, as a policewoman desperate to make a masher arrest, gives The Garry Moore Show a bright spot. And so does talented Caterina Valente's singing.

9-10 (Channel 11) — The Fugitive begins a two-part which sends David Janssen and Eileen Heckart, as a nun whose faith — at first — is child-like, on a trip across the Sierras in a flivver that is looking for a place to die.

'Macbeth' Opens at Music-Drama Center

F. Theodore Cloak Stages Shakespearean Drama, Honors Bard's 400th Anniversary

BY JINGO
Tonight Lawrence College invites the public to participate in its observance of the 400th birthday of William Shakespeare when the college drama department stages the bard's "Macbeth."

From the ticket reservations at the box office it appears the majority of the participants will be high school youngsters from throughout the Fox Cities area. This heavy demand for student tickets has made Macbeth seats about worth their price in gold.

The show opening tonight runs through Saturday night with a matinee being staged on Sunday. That means about 3,000 people will get to see the drama.

It is heartening to see that the area's school authorities have recognized the advantage of this opportunity to see good Shakespeare. However, before the curtain goes up, many of the "scholars" being trundled to the great tragedy are looking with a jaundiced eye on the proceedings.

As an inevitable climax despite the elements of suspense along the way. Some of the scenes have no equal in any stage literature. They're hair-curling.

When Jingo hears that teachers are diverting the attention of their pupils from these important facts to have them discuss the inane problem of who the third murderer might be, he can't blame the youngsters for coming to the play "like a lover leaving his love, with lagging steps and backward looks."

Staging Challenge
Along with its playability, Macbeth has provided the challenge for staging. Orson Welles took up the challenge and moved the locale to Haiti.

Altho u g h Cloak has in there is no quibbling about the literary value of the master wordmaster from Stratford, it to add dark-ness to the have the very bad habit of for-getting to let their scholars, Lawrence's know that Shakespeare was Joe Hopfens-first and last a theater man perger also has who kept a troupe of players met the chal-supplied with box office hits that age. The bard play just as well today as they — in another context — said in The Globe and The "Macbeth", perhaps, is one of the most playable of all of Shakespeare's hits. There is a allow full attention on the actors, their actions and the soaring beauty of the lines they are speaking.

Jingo congratulates you lucky ownership of the horse—and ones who will be able to see "Macbeth."

Horse Returns to Master—Squeals
WASHINGTON (AP) — Internal Revenue Service agents used old-fashioned horse sense to solve an Oklahoma moon-shine case.

A horse was found tied near an unattended liquor still near McAlester, Okla., the agency said Thursday in reporting on 1963 activities of alcohol and tobacco tax officers.

The agent released the horse the sull.
